WEEKEND DANZIG COUP FEARED

Believe Hitler Ready To Strike at Once

LONDON, July 1 (INS) — Word flashing through secret diplomatic channels within the last dozen hours today renewed British fears that Nazis in Danzig are planning an internal coup over the week-end.

Chancellor Adolf Hitler, it was rumored, has decided on a "final solution" of the Danzig problem within the next few days.

These reports were partially borne out in a dramatic press conference at the foreign office near midnight when Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, called in diplomatic correspondents and gave them confidential, but ominous, news.

Thereafter London newspapers, without attributing any information to Lord Halifax, hinted that the situation is reaching an explosive point, and stressed that London and Paris view the situation with extreme gravity.

Against Germany's military and pressure moves, Britain is taking a stand unprecedented in strength and firmness. Authorities said the British government will make it clear that this country will fight if military measures are used to take Danzig.

BELIEVE CRISIS NEAR

One report said Winston Churchill, war-time cabinet minister, and Anthony Eden, who was forced out of the foreign ministership over a year ago because he refused to knuckle down to the dictator nations, may return to the cabinet.

Sir Howard Kennard, ambassador to Poland, was back from Warsaw today to report on the situation.

Sir Nevile Henderson, ambassador to Berlin, is returning next week, and Sir Reginald Hoare, ambassador to Bucharest, Rumania, will be in London soon afterwards.

Most authoritative accounts suggest that the Danzig seizure will parallel directly the methods used in Austria, Czechoslovakia and Memel—the suggestion that a "spontaneous movement" among the Danzig citizens demand its return to the Reich.

Lord Halifax's midnight conference, however, added to the mystery and and uncertainty of a vague situation in which no country seems to know which way the other is going to jump.

CABINET STANDING BY

For, in spite of reports that the Danzig stroke would come within the next few days, seemingly reliable information said that the taking of the free city would be worked out slowly, carefully and peacefully.

Some substantiation was given to this picture of the situation by British reports that Chancellor Hitler is going to Danzig in two or three weeks—delaying at least until that time the blow which many fear will throw Europe into war.

Nevertheless, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain ordered mem-

Danzig Now 'Tourists City'

FREE CITY OF DANZIG, July 1 (AP)—The Danzig radio station broadcast invitations to one and all today to "come and see Danzig and spend your summer holidays here."

The morning musical program was interrupted frequently by a speaker who described the beauties of this city, which has become the focus of Europe's worries, and told of its string of fine beach resorts.

PARIS, Juy 1 (INS)—Pressed by fresh alarms of a possible Hitler coup in Danzig this week-end, allied authorities today weighed every conceivable means of convincing the Fuehrer that they mean this time to fight.

Among the radical measures taken into serious consideration was the dispatch of a squadron of the Franco-Britain fleet to Danzig.

Naval experts point out that this demonstration could only take place in the Baltic if Anglo-French-Russian co-operation had reached such a point that the Soviets would allow the British to use their Kronstadt base.

Otherwise, the allied squadron in the Baltic could be bottled up by German minefields and submarines in the Skaggerak and Kattegat and then destroyed by a superior German fleet.

It is held that the French and British could not afford to send a Baltic fleet large enough to contend with the whole German fleet. But Anglo-French superiority over the German and Italian navies is such that experts say it would be feasible to detach a considerable squadron to the Baltic first to demonstrate and then, if the demonstration failed to check Hitler, to join with the Russian fleet which is now strong in submarines.

They could base at Kronstadt, dominate the northern Baltic and cut off Germany's vital communications with Swedish ore.

EXECUTES WIFE, DAUGHTER IN N. Y.

NEW YORK, July 1 (INS)—With the detached precision of an executioner, Joseph Shapiro today calmly shot down his wife and daughter in their Bronx apartment after forcing them at pistol point to flatten themselves against a wall.

A police dragnet immediately was spread throughout the city for the killer who fled.

"You've had enough fun for the past year," he told them. "Now it's over."

With that, he opened fire.

The victims were Mrs. Rose Shapiro, 37, and the couple's daughter, 14-year-old Rhoda Shapiro.

Shapiro fired six shots. Every bullet found its mark, three hitting his wife and three his daughter.

Neighbors told police the Shapiros, who were separated, had quarrelled some time ago.

For some reason known only to himself, Shapiro spared his 12-year-old son, Jules, and a Negro maid, who cowered in a bedroom. It was the son, frightened and hysterical, who gave the alarm after his father had fled.

It was apparent that neither Mrs. Shapiro nor her daughter had any inkling of the fate awaiting them. Their clothes, and those of Jules, had been packed for a summer vacation which was to have begun today. All three had partaken of a merry going-away breakfast.

It was soon after conclusion of breakfast that Shapiro forced his way into the apartment, brushed aside the maid and backed his wife and daughter against the living room wall.

Their screams for help, their appeals that they be spared, were ignored. Shapiro took careful aim and opened fire.

HULL HITS HOUSE NEUTRALITY VOTE

By WILLIAM S. NEAL

International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 1—With the full approval of President Roosevelt, Secretary of State Cordell Hull directed sharp criticism at the House today for failure to pass administration-sponsored neutrality legislation and called upon Congress to reconsider its action to "keep this country out of war."

Secretary Hull, in a formal statement, on the New Deal's position, emphatically declared the substitute neutrality measure passed by the House last night fails to guarantee "the best interests of this country in its international relations."

The House action, Secretary Hull said, is regarded by the administration "as a matter of regret and disappointment from the standpoint of peace."

WILL NOT RETREAT

The No. 1 officer of the Roosevelt cabinet then revealed the administration would not retreat in its fight for its neutrality program which underwent drastic revision at the hands of a rebellious Congress.

The administration, the Secretary said, "must continue to urge the adoption of its six-point neutrality program," first proposed by Hull, which includes abandonment of compulsory arms embargo provisions carried in the present neutrality act.

The House passed the administration-supported Bloom neutrality bill by a close margin of 200 to 188, but only after it had voted to retain an absolute embargo on shipment of arms and ammunition to warring nations—a restriction bitterly opposed by the President and Secretary Hull.

The neutrality legislation faced a further fight in the Senate, where a formidable bloc has promised a summer-long filibuster rather than permit the repeal of mandatory arms embargo provisions. The HAPPY THAT JACK IS BETTER—Hopeful over Polyclinic Hospital report that Jack Dempsey's condition is "quite satisfactory" after his emergency operation for ruptured appendix, Hannah Williams Dempsey, his wife, and Ned Brown, business associate, leave his bedside after long vigil.

Jack Dempsey Gains; Chances Now 75 to 25

NEW YORK, July 1—Battling with the tenacity of the old Manassa Mauler of the ring, Jack Dempsey showed "marked improvement" today in his struggle against peritonitis which struck him down following a sudden operation for a ruptured appendix.

An encouraging report of his condition came from the Polyclinic Hospital in a bulletin issued at 8 a. m. by A. A. Jaller, executive officer.

"Mr. Dempsey's condition is quite satisfactory," Jaller said. "He had a very good night. His temperature is 101.5 degrees, pulse 82 and respiration 24."

The former world's heavyweight champion is by no means out of danger, however, his physician, Dr. Alfred Lilliendahl, warned the many friends and admirers who besieged the hospital for news of Dempsey's condition.

The crisis will not come until tomorrow evening, Dr. Lilliendahl reported.

EX-CHAMP IS GAINING

More critically ill than he himself had ever believed, the former heavyweight idol regained conscioušness early this morning as his wife, the former Hannah Williams, sat at his side, stroking his hair.

"Where can a guy get something to eat?" he inquired.

At this encouraging sign, Mrs. Dempsey smiled relief, but told the ex-champ:

"Not for a couple of days, darling."

And shortly after Dr. Lilliendahl reported Dempsey was slowly gaining over a foe that knows no rules in the toughest battle of his life.

"He shows marked improvement," Dr. Lilliendahl stated. "We are not particularly worried now, due to his superb physical

Legless Beauty Happy as She Plans to Wed

JESSIE SIMPSON

NEW YORK, July 1 (INS)—This is the story of a love so great and unselfish that it triumphed over one of the greatest tragedies that could ever befall a girl.

Jessie Simpson, 20, the pretty Hackensack, N. J., beauty contest winner who lost both legs beneath a train, is to be married to James Stewart, her high school sweetheart who refused to allow her misfortune to blight their love.

"He has meant much to me," said Jessie today. "At the time of the accident, he was constantly at my bedside. He and my parents—they gave me the courage to go on."

Jessie did go on living after the tragedy. She learned to walk with artificial legs. She kept her smile and her courage. And now she has a flourishing beauty shop business.

Hub '400' Primps For Visit of Royal Norway Visitors

Norway's royal couple, Crown Prince Olav and Crown Princess Martha today were Boston-bound from Philadelphia for a brief but socially-exciting visit.

The royal pair are to arrive at South Station at 6:25 p. m., there to be welcomed by thousands of New England well-wishers.

An impromptu reception is scheduled right in the station, with state and city officials and the Norwegian consul, Bjarne Ursin, heading the greeters.

One of the big events of the visit will be celebration tomorrow of the Crown Prince's 36th birthday. And for the first time in United States history a descendant of George III, the spurning of whose crown is commemorated by July 4, will help to celebrate here the Declaration of Independence.

Following the public reception, the royal couple will motor directly to the home of Mrs. T. Jefferson Coolidge and her sons, William A.

Hunt Missing 'Boston Doctor'

Police at Atlantic City, N. J., today revealed the disappearance of a man registered at the Chelsea Hotel, Atlantic City, as "Dr. R. Hamilton of 171 Elm street, Boston."

Hotel employes sought police aid after the guest mysteriously vanished, leaving behind valuable personal belongings and a complete wardrobe.

In turning the hunt for information to Boston, police learned there is but one Dr. R. Hamilton in all Massachusetts. This physician was located safe at his Newburyport home.

Police also revealed that, of the several Elm streets in Boston, none lists the No. 171 or an occupant having the name of the missing man.

Atlantic City police were told the missing physician registered at the Chelsea Hotel after having made earlier reservations at the St. Moritz, New York city.

Paris Cabinet Acts To Give Poland Aid

PARIS, July 1 (AP)—The French cabinet in a three-hour meeting with President Lebrun at the Elysee Palace today unanimously approved Premier Daladier's declared determination to back Poland fully in the event of a German move against Danzig.

A communique issued after the unusually long meeting said simply that the premier had informed the President and cabinet ministers of the general European situation "which remains very serious."

Trustworthy informants, however, said that he reiterated France's pledges of aid to Poland should the latter call for help to oppose a German move on Danzig and said there was no change in his determination to stand by these pledges.

General Maurice Gustave Gamelin, commander-in-chief of France's armed forces, cancelled a tour of Corsica. Informed quarters said the cancellation was due to French fears over the Danzig situation.

Both Daladier and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet made a complete report on Europe's latest developments. They were said to have painted a dark picture of the Danzig situation.

Daladier declared, the informants said, that France must show no sign of faltering at this moment, when Germany appeared to be increasing her pressure on the Free City on the Baltic.

Daladier also obtained the cabinet's approval on what the communique called "a certain number of decrees" designed to strengthen the national defense.

Finance Minister Paul Reynaud told the cabinet that a new issue of national defense bonds had been authorized. The new issue is to cover 4,400,000,000 francs (about $116,600,000) out of the 15 billion francs (about [illegible]) already called for as extraordinary arms expenditure for 1939.

NEW NAZI WARNING BY POLAND

WARSAW, July 1 (INS)—The possibility that Britain and France have warned Poland to refrain from any provocative acts against Germany was discussed in political quarters today as the result of a significant editorial in the semi-official newspaper Kurjer Poznany.

The editorial even hinted that Great Britain and France could not altogether be relied on to fulfill their alliance obligations with Poland in the event of a German coup.

In the sharpest warning yet thrown by Poland in the direction of Adof Hitler a government spokesman flatly declared that any act of violence against Danzig, whether it is committed inside or outside the Free City, would be regarded by the Poles as an immediate cause for war.

GERMANS ENTER DANZIG

The German storm troopers steadily streaming into Danzig from East Prussia were reported equipped with bayonets instead of their customary daggers. Information reaching Warsaw said "large numbers" of members of Germany's gestapo (secret police) were arriving at Danzig where their chief, Heinrich Himmler, was said to be secretly directing all preparations for a coup.

Anti-aircraft and artillery pieces were reportedly being smuggled in piecemeal to evade Polish customs guards, the guns being assembled in Danzig.

TROOPS MOVE

Quietly but intensively, Polish troops and equipment are being moved and deployed in the frontier regions. Around Danzig alone some 100,000 Polish troops, together with strategically-placed artillery, are posted. The most reliable estimates indicate some 1,300,000 Poles are under arms.

British Workers Appeal to Nazis to Prevent War

LONDON, July 1 (INS)—Headed "Why Kill Each Other?" a manifesto addressed to the German people was issued by the National Council of British Labor today.

The manifesto appealed for aid of the German population to prevent the world from drifting into war.

"The British people are your friends," the manifesto read.

Nazis Tighten Helgoland Ring

BREMEN, Germany, July 1 (AP)—Secrecy around the fortified island of Helgoland in the North Sea was tightened today.

German citizens without identification papers were prevented from going to or even toward the island. The restrictions are to be permanent.

Foreigners some time ago were barred from Helgoland.

Britain Recalls Vienna Consul

VIENNA, July 1 (AP)—Britain today summoned home her Vienna consul-general, Donald St. Clair Gainer, complying with Germany's June 21 request for his recall, which retaliated for the ousting of German Consul-General Walther Reinhardt from Liverpool.

Gainer received orders to report at the London foreign office next week.

POLAND 'MAY STRIKE FIRST' IN DANZIG

FREE CITY OF DANZIG, July 1 (INS)—Danzig's Nazi circles expressed a fear that Poland "may strike first" in the crisis centering on the Free City. Accordingly, the Nazi authorities admitted they had "reinforced" the city's police ranks "for precautionary purposes."

They reiterated denial of reports published by Warsaw newspapers that thousands of German fighting men, including officers of the regular German army, and arms and munitions have been smuggled into Danzig.

(Reuter's news agency stated however in a Danzig dispatch that a group of German army officers in civilian attire arrived in the Free City tonight to take over command of a "free corps" consisting mainly of storm troopers from East Prussia.

(A Warsaw dispatch to the London Daily Telegraph said it was reported many German army units, stationed at points near the Polish frontiers, have been brought up to full war strength.)

The Nazi authorities who control the Free City's government gave the impression that they fear Polish troops, surrounding Danzig's borders, may seek to move in on the belief that a putsch is in progress

Happy Trapeze Girl Walks From Hospital

Gay courage found its reward today when Fritzi Bartoni, the blonde little trapeze artiste who plunged 40 feet to the arena floor in the Boston Garden two months ago, left the Massachusetts General Hospital.

Defying predictions of doctors that she might never walk again, the Viennese performer smilingly announced she would begin exercises designed to take her back beneath the "big top" as soon as her broken bones begin to heal.

AMAZES PHYSICIANS

And to their surprise she succeeded. Already, only eight weeks after her plunge, she can walk without crutches, although she uses crutches to get around in order to save her strength.

Accompanied by her husband, Lombard Bartoni, himself the victim of 10 such accidents as smashed his wife's body, Fritzi went from the hospital to the Manger Hotel, expecting to remain there until Monday.

On Monday, she will be driven to Providence to join the circus. And then the second part of her long struggle will begin—the slow exercising process to tune up muscles long out of use—so that once more she can thrill the circus crowds with her daring grace on the trapeze.

GRAND FAREWELL PARTY

"It feels wonderful to be back in clothes again—you get so tired of those hospital nightgowns," declared the little star, with a radiant smile, as she left the hospital.

She wore a light blue print dress and a gay little hat.

"We had a grand farewell party last night," she said. "I'm afraid a lot of patients are running high temperatures today."

Fritzi said she would like, during the remaining two days of her stay in Boston, to see as much of the town as she can.

"I'm so glad to be free to move around," she said. "I'd like to do everything at once, but of course I shall have to be careful for a long time. It's a slow business, coming back."

bers of his cabinet to stand by over the week-end for possible developments.

Amid intense diplomatic activity, stressed again that Britain and France are determined to keep their pledges to fight for Poland, if high government spokesmen Poland considers her independence menaced sufficiently to go to war.

HITLER PLANS KNOWN

(Yesterday, in a dispatch from Paris carried in Boston exclusively by the Boston American, H. R. Knickerbocker, ace International News Correspondent, revealed in detail Hitler's plans for war.)

(Mr. Knickerbocker, without qualification, declared Hitler has decided on the greatest gamble of his career—the seizure of Danzig and the settlement, on totalitarian lines, of the entire Polish situation.

(Mr. Knickerbocker also revealed that the crisis in Europe will begin to gain strength July 20, with the end of the German harvest, and will increase to a maximum about mid-August.

(His dispatch stated that Hitler plans to hold back the French at the Siegfried line until he has crushed Poland—should Poland resist the Danzig coup. This campaign against Poland, Hitler figures, will take no more than three months. If France and Britain do not then accept a peace, Hitler will invade France through Switzerland, the dispatch added.)

Albert Foerster, Nazi district leader for Danzig, was looked upon as the key man in the possible Nazi coup.

HITLER TO VISIT AREA

The Daily Telegraph said it was believed that the Nazi-controlled Danzig Senate might proclaim that, because of a "spontaneous movement" among the Danzigers, the free city would rejoin Germany at once.

Foerster talked with the Fuehrer in Germany last week.

Paris reports pictured a possible strategy thus:

1—Chancellor Hitler will go to Danzig between the 20th and 30th of July at the invitation of Arthur Greiser, president of the Danzig Senate, to be made an honorary citizen.

2—Amid great demonstrations for Hitler, the Danzig Senate will assert its fidelity to the Reich.

3—While German "tourists" from East Prussia flow into Danzig in their thousands, Marshal Hermann Goering will go to Danzig as the center of another pro-German manifestation.

4—Then Hitler may say to the world: "Behold! Danzig wants to come back to the Reich!" and the final step in this bloodless "white war" is Anschluss.

Information reaching the British government said Hitler, when he goes to Danzig, will repeat the terms he gave months ago to Poland, and which Poland rejected even as a basis for negotiations.

Evidence in British circles confirmed that German storm troopers and munitions are being sent into Danzig.

U. S. ASSAILS JAP BOMBING OF MISSION

SHANGHAI, July 1 (INS)—The Japanese bombing of an American mission at Foochow and tightening of the blockade of Tientsin's British and French concessions today contributed fresh fuel to the international tension in China.

Counter-balancing these incidents, however, was a Japanese decision, in response to a British request, to postpone for a few days bottling up of the Chinese-held seaport of Foochow.

American authorities in Shanghai lodged with the Japanese navy and consulate general a protest against the bombing of the American mission premises on the outskirts of Foochow, which were the headquarters of the American board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions.

Several Chinese students in the mission school were killed when three Japanese air bombs struck and wrecked the property.

Bride of Italian Duke

WeddingUnites Italian, Greek Royal Houses

FLORENCE, Italy, July 1 (AP)—The royal houses of Italy and Greece were united today when Princess Irene, sister of King George II of Greece, became the bride of Duke Aimone of Spoleto, cousin of King Vittorio Emanuele of Italy.

Nearly 50 princes and princesses of various European royal families attended the ceremony in the Cathedral of Santa Marie Del Fiore.

Although the marriage was describad officially as a love matcn without political significance, it was regarded in diplomatic circles as tending to bring Greece and Italy closer at a time of some Greek uneasiness caused by Italy's Good Friday annexation of Albania, which put Italian troops on the Greek frontier.

The Duke and Duchess of Kent came from England for the wedding.

G-Men Smash Opium Smuggling Ring

NEW YORK, July 1 (AP)—Treasury agents announced they had smashed an international opium smuggling ring which used pretty models as carriers to bring more than $165,000 in drugs from ship to shore.

Agent George Collins said the gang was broken up with the aid of Italian officials and that the arrest of Agitano Garufi, 38, barber shop proprietor, of Englewood, N. J., completed the roundup.

CONGRESS WIDENS BREAK WITH F. R.

WASHINGTON, July 1 (INS) — President Roosevelt and Congress began a new fiscal year today with the breach between them widening hourly.

A session which got under way with the executive and legislative branches in complete accord on rearmament appeared headed for an open break over policies affecting the national economy and the conduct of foreign relations.

Contributing no little to the growing separation was the use to which the foes of the New Deal have put the legislative jam occasioned by the expiration of the fiscal year at midnight last night.

OPEN BREAK NEAR

In one of the weirdest marathon sessions that Congress has experienced in years, both houses labored far into the night—the Senate devoting its time to a filibuster against extension of the President's extraordinary powers; the House spending the waning hours virtually wrecking the executive's neutrality legislation.

Similarly, both branches approved and shot through at the last minute the most stringent relief bill enacted since the poliry of federal suhlor to the unfortunate was adopted in the early days of the New Deal.

Its sponsors called ti a bill carrying orders from Congress for WPA to clean its own house," but it drew severe criticism from President Roosevelt.

Amid confusion precipitated by the jam over neutrality, relief and monetary powers, a group of conservative Democrats and Republicans seized the opportunity to convene the House rules committee for a favorable vote on a resolution calling for a special House investigation of the National Labor Relations Board.

SEE PROLONGED SESSION

Twenty-four hours earlier the House had voted the special WPA investigating committee another $75,000 to continue its inquiry, and the Dies committee investigating un-American activities is slated to seek additional funds before adjournment of Congress.

The Dies committe has already proved a thorn in the side of the administration: the WPA inquiry has been received with much discomfort, while the prespective probe of the NLRB is not elated to be accepted with relish.

Less in the headline stage at the moment, but equally controversial, lurks a certain battle over Pres. Roosevelt's $3,800,000,000 lending program. Legislation for it has not even been introduced, but the grumbling in both the Senate and House has grown daily since the plan was first announced by the Chief Executive last week.

Congressional leaders have virtually abandoned hope for a midsummer adjournment. Twenty-one senators have been pledged to filibuster the neutrality bill.

To the lending legislation yet to be launched, and to the controversy over monetary powers can be added many lesser items of irritation.

U. S. Acts to Continue Currency Stabilization

WASHINGTON, July 1 (INS)—The United States Treasury today mobilized the government's vast cash resources in an emergency move to safeguard its tri-partite currency agreement with Great Britain nad France.

Failure of the Senate to continue the President's monetary powers swept into temporary discard the $2,000,000,000 exchange stabilization fund which the United States has utilized to keep the dollar, pound and franc steady in international money markets.

Under the tri-partite agreement, the three nations are pledged to cooperate in keeping their respective currencies from undue fluctuations, each nation employs a stabilization fund to accomplish this purpose.

In a desperate effort to prevent collapse of the tri-partite pact, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau and his advisers canvassed existing financial statues to determine how far the United States could go in continuing international stabilization operations.

Patrolman's Act Saves Child Cut by Broken Bottle

The life of little Thersa O'Leary, 11, of Conant street, Roxbury, was saved today by prompt action of a police officer who put a tourniquet on her arm after she had cut her hand and wrist on a broken cream bottle.

The bottle smashed when the child fell, on her way to the store for her mother.

Patrolman Michael Clancy of the Dudley street station rendered the effective first aid which stopped the bleeding. t City Hospital, doctors said the victim would recover.

Broadway in Gloom; Best 'Angel 'Quits

NEW YORK, July 1 (AP)—Uncle Sam was out of the show business today—and Broadway was glum at losing the biggest spending "angel" in the history of the American theater.

The ambitious boys and girls of the WPA federal theater project, and aging troupers enabled by its funds to prolong careers in tinsel, attended its "wake" last night in a mood rebellious and bitter.

Elimination of the project by Congress from the 1939-40 relief appropriation threw 8000 entertainers out of work, 3500 in New York City alone.

CURTAIN FALLS LAST TIME

In a "symbolical protest," a rewritten version of "Pinocchio," one of the projects greatest hits, was presented at the farewell performance. In it, the puppet, instead of becoming a live boy, died symbolizing the fate of the Federal Theater. The cast then chanted:

"So let the bells proclaim our grief
That his small life was all too brief!"

Stagehands then knocked down the sets in full view of the audience.

"Thus passed Pinocchio," the actors intoned. "Born Dec. 23, 1938 (opening date of the show), died June 30, 1939. Killed by act of Congress."

Afterward the casts of the three WPA plays now running and other project workers demonstrated in Times Square, chanting:

"WPA is the American way—save the Federal theater."

HAD STORMY CAREER

Rep. Woodrum (D.), of Virginia, led the fight against providing an appropriation for the theater project. Its continuation was urged by Tallulah Bankhead, who journeyed to Washington to make a personal plea, Helen Hayes and scores of other film and theater notables.

The project, investigated by the Dies committee and assailed by one group of Broadway producers as unfair competition, had a stormy career since its birth in August, 1935. Its productions ballets, operettas, circuses, puppet shows and dramas—played to an estimated national audience of 30,000,000 persons.

On February 8, 1938, Mrs. Hallie Flanagan, national director, told a House committee the project had spent $25,000,006 and drawn $1,000,000 at the box office in its first two years.

GRADUATED STARS

Although many ventures were flops, the project also scored such notable achievements as the premiere of Sinclair Lewis' "It Can't Happen Here," an all-Negro version of "Macbeth," "Doctor Faustus," "One-Third of a Nation," and the Chicago branch's presentation of "The Swing Mikado."

From its casts graduated several promising radio, movie and stage actors, including young Orson Welles, a founder of the experimental Mercury Theater.

U. S. Closes 9th Year in Red

WASHINGTON, July 1 (INS)—The United States Treasury closed books on its ninth straight year "in the red" today, and launched into a new fiscal year with little prospect of a 1940 deficit smaller than the three and a half billion-dollar discrepancy between costs and income during the 12-month period ended last midnight.

The 1938-39 fiscal year deficit was the second largest during the nine-year span that started in 1931 with a modest $961,959,000 failure failure to meet expenses. Only in 1936, when the dificit totaled $4,952,928,068, was the 1938-39 figure topped.

Disabled Vets Vote To Back Neutrality

Disabled Veterans of the World War assembled in their 18th annual state convention at the Parker House today, pledged to stand against foreign entanglements or any legislation which would affect neutrality.

Salient Points In Neutral Bill

WASHINGTON, July 1 (INS)—Major provisions of the neutrality bill passed by the House were:

Bars shipment of lethal weapons to belligerents.

Permits either Congress or the President to find a state of war exists between foreign nations.

Bars travel by Americans on vessels of belligerent nations except at their own risk.

Requires transfer of title to goods of foreign purchases before they are shipped from U. S. ports.

Restricts loans and credits to short term obligations of 90 days or less, with no renewal.

Restricts solicitation of funds for belligerents.

Continues national munitions control board.

In opening the two-day convention, State Commander Eugene C. Sheehan declared that Congress and not the President should decide on the sale of munitions.

A resolution to this effect was among measures under consideration today as business sessions continued.

MEMORIAL TOMORROW

An impressive memorial service will be held on the U. S. frigate Constitution at 10 a. m., tomorrow.

At 1 p. m. tomorrow a business meeting will be held, followed at 3 by nomination and election of state department officers. It was announced last night that Commander Harold McKelvey of Framingham Post, had withdrawn as a candidate for state commander and thrown his support to A. Richard Zurfluh of Lowell, state senior vice commander.

In an election of officers of the "Trench Rats," playboy organization of the D. A. V., Charles W. Miller of East Boston was chosen "Golden Rodent."

"Silver Rodent" was Stanley A. Loring of Stoughton and Walter Marks of Malden was elected 'Blue Rodent." John C. Thomas of Revere was named "Holey Rat," Edward J. Walsh, former state commander, "Black Plague," John J. Lyons of East Boston, "Bubonic Plague," and other officers were Cecil E. Atkins of Roxbury, Otis L. Farley of Boston and Leslie Martin of Arlington.

MOTHERS HONORED

More than 100 Gold Star Mothers and former war nurses gathered for a reception and luncheon in their honor, at which Superintendent Lawrence Quigley of the Chelsea Soldiers' Home was guest speaker.

Dept. Adj. Joseph H. Gillis, is general chairman; Historian Otis L. Farley, publicity; Treas. Walter G. Barrows, registration; Chief of Staff John A. Colbert, banquet; Imperial Trench Rat Lloyd T. Blanchard, Trench Rat program; Walter E. Marks, Women's Auxiliary; John E. Pacheco, housing; Judge Advocate Edward J. Sullivan, regulations; Roy S. Edwards, convention budget; Harry O'Connell, badges; Edward J. Walsh, drill master, assisted by Chief Bugler James Henry Murphy, drill team.

Hull Hits House On Neutrality

Senate group is supporting an embargo extending beyond that voted by the House.

Hull pointed out the administration neutrality proposal had been outlined to Congress on May 27 in in identic letters sent to Senator Key Pittman and Representative Sol Bloom, heads of the Senate and House committees on foreign affairs.

The administration called for a program designed to replace neutrality legislation which the administration contends is a "patchwork" act and has failed to serve the country's best interests during the international crises and the wars in Europe and the Far East during the past three years.

Hull, at that time, asked for elimination of the compulsory arms embargo provision, prohibition of American ships from entering combat areas, restriction of travel by American citizens in combat areas, provision that the export of goods to belligerents be on a cash-and-carry basis continuance of existing legislation respecting loans and credits to nations at war and the regulation of solicitation and collection in the United States of funds for belligerents.

Hits 3rd Term On 'Principle'

WASHINGTON, July 1 (INS)—The "Draft-Roosevelt-in-1940" drive launched by the White House "palace guard" suffered a set-back when Rep. Pat Drewry of Virginia, chairman of the Democratic congressional campaign committee, declared himself against a third term.

"I think it is a matter of principle that there should not be a third term for a President," declared the Virginian who has guided Democratic candidates to smashing victories in congressional contests.

"I am not opposed to Roosevelt the man—I am opposed to breaking the tradition of this country against a third term."

Sally Eilers Silent on Soda Fountain Scene

HOLLYWOOD, July 1 (INS)—Sally Eilers, vivacious screen actress, had no comment to make today concerning a purported row with another woman in a soda fountain.

Verbal fireworks assertedly took place between Miss Eilers and another patron, the manager of the store, J. C. Gilchrist, told police, when Miss Eilers was sitting at the soda fountain sipping a soda and Mrs. Earl Read, wife of a retired police officer, sat at the counter next to her.

"You can't sit here, I'm saving that for a friend," Gilchrist said Miss Eilers told Mrs. Read, but Mrs. Read sat there anyway.

"Miss Eilers," Gilchrist said, "turned away, but her soda overturned and spilled on Mrs. Read. Both women became excited, and friends of each soothed their fury."

Watch Roads Here, Ports for La. Prexy

Police watched steamship terminals in Boston and guarded Massachusetts highways today as the nation-wide search for Dr. James Monroe Smith, Louisiana State University president wanted for embezzlement of $100,000, concentrated in the east.

Teletype alarms sent by Massachusetts state police at the request of Sheriff N. H. DeBretton of Baton Rouge, La., said the missing educator and his wife had been traced to Michigan, where they bought a new car, then headed for Boston.

A Louisiana grand jury has returned indictments against Dr. Smith and four others.

His wife, Owen Ware, his son-in-law; Emory Adams, a former confidante, and J. M. Bown, his brokerage agent, were the others indicted.

Authorities believe Dr. Smith is seeking passage abroad under an assumed name. Two liners, the Carinthia, bound for England, and the Lady Hawkins, going to West Indian ports, are leaving from Boston this week-end.

The fugitive educator, once a protege of the late Huey Long and famous for building up Louisiana State University's prestige, was indicted for his part in the million-dollar scandal at the institution.

He resigned Sunday night from the presidency he had held nine years, then fled. Indicted with him are his wife, nephew, son-in-law and brokerage intermediary.

The scandal, which police say, constituted complicated transfers of nearly a million dollars in university funds which were lost while Smith tried to corner the southern wheat market, "broke" just as Louisiana's Governor Leche resigned because of sickeness and turned over his office to Earl K. Long, brother of the late senator.

Postoffice Stations To Close on Holiday

Postmaster Peter F. Tague today announced stations, branches and general departments of the Boston Postoffice will be closed Tuesday, the Fourth of July, but will function full strength Monday.

Special delivery and perishable mail only will be delivered on the holiday. Stamp, registry and parcel post window service will be available at the general postoffice, however, until 11:30 p. m.

Lobbies of the postoffice will be open from 8 a. m. to 10 a. m. for the convenience of boxholders, and the usual holiday collection from street letter boxes will be made, the postmaster said.

4 Bodies Taken From Ditch

EAST RUTHERFORD, N. J., July 1 (AP)—An ordinarily dry drainage ditch, raised to a seething torrent for a few hours by the rush of rain water, today gave up the body of a seven-year-old boy, one of four persons sucked to death within 15 minutes.

Three of the bodies, bumped through a 36-inch culvert for from 100 yards to a mile and a quarter, were recovered soon after they disappeared.

The deaths came in two freak accidents. Arthur Unger, seven, disappeared first in the ditch. The second victim was Sophie Kostophilis, 11.

Attracted by cries for help Henry Pfeifer, 37, an insurance man jumped into the stream and was knocked off his feet by the water.

William Steigleman, 46, street department employe, jumped in to aid Pfeiffer, and was also knocked flat. Bodies of both men were recovered.

Dotty Won't Testify In Alderman Suit

NEW YORK, July 1 (AP)—From Dorothy Lamour's hotel suite came the word today that "Miss Lamour has no connection with that case in Los Angeles and no interest in it."

Would she testify later in Alma Alderman's $150,000 heart balm suit against Rute Tting, blues singer?

"Certainly not," said her manager, Wynn Rocamora. "That's absolutely ridiculous."

Spinsters Sing Song of Pensions Written by Man

LONDON, July 1 (INS)—It would be a man, and a married one at that, who today gave to the spinsters of Britain their battle song in a campaign for their pensions to start at the age of 55, instead of 65. Organized and militant spinsters have adopted this song:

"Enland's mothers, England's wives
"With pensions can sustain their lives.
"Why should the unmarried daughter
"Starve, because no man has caught her?
"This is why the British spinster
"Presses onward to Westminster."

The words are those of Col. H. L. Nath, Laborite member of Parliament. And with the song the spinsters are demanding legislation in Westminster, where the Houses of Parliament stand.

PATRIARCA'S BRIDE TO CORRECT RECORDS

City Registrar James A. Burke today received Mrs. Helen Mandella Patriarca's written promise that she will come to Boston next week to correct alleged misstatements made when she filed marriage intentions in February with Raymond L. S. Patriarca, center of the state pardon probe.

Their marriage took place soon after Patriarca's much-discussed release from state prison, where he served 84 days of a three-to-five-year sentence for armed robbery.

His pardon under parole conditions by Governor Hurley was a principal factor in bringing about the present legislative probe of the so-called pardon and parole "racket" in this state.

In a letter written from Worcester Mrs. Patriarca, a former Boston nurse, pleaded illness as her reason for having failed to reply to three previous communications from Registrar Burke demanding her appearance at his office.

His fourth and "final" demand, threatening court action, was sent to Mrs. Patriarca at her husband's legal address in Providence, R. I.

Both Patriarca and his then fiancee allegedly gave false Boston addresses when they filed marriage intentions February 2.

HOLIDAY TREK GETS UNDER WAY

Holiday celebrators were on the move today—leaving by road, rail, sea and air for a long week-end observance of Independence Day.

The weather bureau predicted fair and slightly cooler weather for tonight, with continued fair weather tomorrow and Monday, and moderate west to northwest winds.

While the bulk of the travel was toward recreational centers in the country and at the seashore, many other thousands poured into Boston and into New York for the World's Fair—biggest single destination of travellers.

STARTS SAFETY DRIVE

Extra-service schedules have been put into effect by all forms of public transportation.

Extra State Police were ordered out to handle the heavy motor traffic, while Registrar Frank A. Goodwin announced special details of his inspectors would be on the watch for drinking drivers. Police Commissioner Timilty announced the beginning of a six-months safety drive as the holiday travel got under way.

Although hotels, restaurants, taverns and clubs may sell alcoholic beverages during the usual hours on the Fourth of July, package goods stores can keep open only between 1 and 11 p. m. on that day according to a ruling of the Alcoholic Beverages Commission. Druggists will not be allowed to sell during the entire day except on a doctor's prescription.

RAIL FARES REDUCED

Timed to add impetus to the migration of young and old, reduced railroad rates, which will be in force during the 60-day summer vacation period, became effective yesterday. Boston & Albany fares were cut 10 to 23 per cent, according to the distance travelled; the New Haven railroad inaugurated approximate 10 per cent reductions; and the Boston & Maine lowered the fare from 2 to 2¼ cents a mile on the round-trip tickets.

Reservations were filed aboard the S. S. St. John when it left last night for St. John, N. B., and another gay holiday gathering will set out for Yarmouth, N. S., tonight.

A crescendo in the pitch of travel excitement will be reached tonight when workers in countless business establishments begin a three-day week-end vacation. Boston stores will be open today but closed Monday in order to give employes the extra-day advantage for trips and recreation.

Vatican Curbs Tobacco Sales

VATICAN CITY, July 1 (AP)—Vatican authorities today restricted the sale of tobacco and liquors in Vatican City to 1025 persons actually resident therein and also increased prices in a further attempt to prevent smuggling to Italian territory outside.

The price of American cigarettes was raised from 3.50 lire to 5 lire a pack (about 18 cents to 26 cents) and whiskey from 13 lire to 24 lire a bottle (68 cents to $1.26).

In Rome American cigarettes cost 8 lire (42 cents) a pack and whiskey 90 lire ($4.73) a bottle.

COLLAPSES IN COURT—Weeping softly, Mrs. Zella Jeffers is handed a glass of water by her husband, the Rev. Joe Jeffers, after she collapsed on witness stand in Los Angeles court morals trial. "You are giving me an unfair trial," she cried during cross-examination.

Discovers Apple Juice Prevents Intoxication

PALO ALTO, Cal. July 1 (AP)—Apple juice received a high scientific rating today as a preventer of intoxication.

Dr. Ira A. Manville, of the University of Oregon medical school, told the American Association for the Advancement of Science that apple juice administered along with liquor to dogs had markedly kept down the alcoholic content of the blood and minimized toxic effects.

Enough alcohol to cause unconsciousness was given along with a mixture of ordinary sugar and water, to one dog. Another dog was given the same proportion of alcohol along with apple juice.

The first dog suffered "uncoordination" and finally passed out. The only effect on the dog given apple juice was slight lowering of muscular coordination. He didn't even feel sleepy.

The sugar water given the first dog was to match the natural sugar content of the apple juice administered to the second animal. Thus Dr. Manville and his associates obtained a clue as to the effectiveness of different types of sugar in the process.

He concluded that fructose, the principal sugar of the apple and other fruit, and dextrose, a sugar mainly derived from starches, might eventually play an important medical part in counteracting the poisonous effects of alcohol on persons needing that protection because of inadequate functioning of the liver.

Plan Appeal For Buckner

NEW YORK, July 1 (AP)—Attorneys for William P. Buckner, Jr., wisecracking playboy promoter, and two co-defendants, said today they would appeal their conviction on charges of defrauding Philippine Railway bondholders.

A federal court jury took less than three hours to find Buckner and William J. Gillespie, a broker, guilty on seven counts of mail fraud and one of conspiracy.

The jury also convicted Felipe Buencamino, Philippine legislator, of conspiracy, acquitted him of mail fraud and freed two other defendants—Captain John Stuart Hyde, former British army officer, and C. W. Turner, a broker.

Buckner, 32-year-old nephew of Thomas A. Buckner, chairman of the board of the New York Life Insurance Company, and Gillespie are subject to a maximum penalty of 37 years' imprisonment and $24,000 in fines each. Sentence will be passed July 6.

Goguen Takes Oath as Marshal

In presence of relatives, friends and notables, J. Henry Goguen of Leominster was sworn in here today as United States marshal.

The oath was administered by Judge Francis J. W. Ford in the Federal building's big, 15th floor courtroom.

The new marshal's wife, Mrs. Corinne Goguen, and a daughter, Jeannette, eight, witnessed the ceremony. A reception followed in the marshal's office.

Among those present were Immigration Commissioner Mary M. Ward and former State Senators Edward Morris and John J. Kearney.

At Goguen's side sat former United States Marshal John J. Murphy, whose resignation led to the new marshal's appointment.

SEEK TO TRANSFER DOLL DEATH TRIAL

Special to Boston Evening American

MAUCH CHUNK, July 1—Pennsylvania's state motor police will seek a change of venue for the trial of Corporal Benjamin Franklin, charged with the slaying of 14-year-old "doll girl" Joan Stevens of Nesquehoning.

This was revealed today by County Judge William G. Thomas, before whom the case would be heard if Franklin is indicted and tried in Carbon county.

"I understand," Judge Thomas said, "that the police intend asking for a change of venue. They want the case moved to another county.

"Of course, this is the type of case which has attracted nationwide attention and no judge enjoys sitting in a case of that type unless it is necessary."

It was Judge Thomas, who, believing that Joan had threatened the corporal with a real gun instead of a cheap toy, admitted Franklin to $5000 bail.

Judge Thomas, emphasizing the fact that he holds no opinion concerning the guilt or innocence of Franklin, said:

"A police officer should hesitate a long time before he uses his gun and takes a human life."

Concerning the recent baring of the secret methods employed by law enforcement officials after the killing in an endeavor to hide the facts from the public, Judge Thomas said:

"There is no doubt that the matter was handled badly in many respects, but that phase of the case will not enter into the matter at the time of the trial, if there is a trial, unless some relevancy is shown in connection with the shooting itself."

Ben Branch, local attorney, who has been asked by Major William Clarke, regional director here of the police, to take on Franklin's defense, is a former law partner of Judge Thomas.

Grim Epitaph for Tombstone of Slain 'Doll'

MAUCH CHUNK, Pa., July 1—"Shot and killed by a member of the Pennsylvania State motor police on the night of June 5, 1939."

This is the engraving which the parents of 14-year-old Joan Stevens have ordered inscribed on the child's tombstone.

"I only hope," Mrs. Stevens, mother of the slain schoolgirl, said, "that the court orders Franklin to come to see this tombstone every day of his life to read that inscription and realize what he has done to us."

Snite Back In Chicago

CHICAGO, July 1 (AP)—Smiling and cheerful, Fred B. Snite, Jr., came home today from his pilgrimage to the Shrine of the Virgin in Lourdes, France.

The 28-year-old Chicagoan, who has spent the last three years in an iron lung, arrived from New York aboard a special railroad car, accompanied by his parents and a party of 14 friends and attendants.

His artificial respirator was loaded aboard a truck for the trip to the Snite home in River Forest. Fred Snite, Sr., said he was convinced the journey had done his son good.

PRISON AHEAD—Nonchalantly, William P. Buckner, Jr., lights cigarette for his lawyer, John Minton, as they await New York jury's action in bond fraud. A few minutes later jury files in. Verdict is guilty. And Buckner faces 37-year term in prison.

Kin at Bedside, Connie Mack Rallies

His womenfolk at the bedside, Connie Mack, "grand old man" of baseball, rallied from serious illness today in his suite at the Copley Plaza Hotel.

"My father is showing steady improvement," was the statement of his daughter, Mrs. Francis X. Reilly the former Mary Cornelia McGillicuddy, who raced here from a New Hampshire visit to be with her dad.

The veteran baseball manager, now in his 77th year, also was attended by his wife, who reached here after a speedy trip from her home in Philadelphia.

Remaining behind while the Philadelphia Athletics departed for games in Washington, Mack's illness was first diagnosed as acute indigestion.

Later he developed high fever, which doctors said would force him to remain in bed several days.

Also at the side of the stricken baseball head was James Tadley, trainer of the Philadelphia team, who remained behind to aid in caring for him.

Survives 50 Scissor Stabs

CAMDEN, N. J., July 1 (AP)—Detective Edwin Mills said Thomas M. Swissler, 31, stabbed his wife, Frances, 32, "about 50 times" with a pair of scissors during a quarrel today in the Swissler home.

Time and again the four-inch blades of the scissors pierced the back, neck and abdomen of the woman.

Swissler was found sitting beside her, Mills said.

The detective quoted Swissler as saying he "saw red" when the wife accused him of spending his money on "other women."

Physicians said the woman was in a serious condition.

Home Life of Ruth Etting

Actor John's Daughter Talks

Ships Crash Off N. E. Coast

Weismuller Coaches You

DEATH TAKES THE HELM! This is the gripping story of mingled tragedy and adventure Paul Whelton tells tomorrow in the Sunday Advertiser.

The liner Fairfax and the tanker Pinthis were moving cautiously through the fog that blanketed the New England coast. Night had fallen, bringing with it impenetrable darkness.

CRASH! Crunch! Steel plates folding like bits of paper. Men screaming orders. Feverish, frantic racing for lifeboats.

And then—FIRE, most dreadful of all maritime calamities.

We shall not reveal more. We shall let you read it yourself, for that is the only way really to appreciate the picture Mr. Whelton's gifted pen creates.

"THE LITTLE LADY AND THE GIMP" is another interest-commanding feature you won't fail to enjoy.

It concerns languorous Ruth Etting and her "tough guy" former husband, Colonel Moe Snyder.

And it discusses in a new and informative manner the love, violence and happiness that spiced their marital union.

EXCELLENT READING also is the Green Magazine's story "The Priest of the Snow Trails."

This distinguished New Englander, a Lowell Oblate father, is the pastor of North America's most northerly parish, where amid never-ending danger, he is the human link that binds isolated communities to church and civilization.

YOU HAVE HEARD a lot about the celebrated careers of Johnny Weismuller and Eleanor Holm, now starring at the World's Fair Aquacade.

But even in your wildest dreams you hardly expected to employ them as swimming instructors.

None the less, that is exactly what you are going to do tomorrow. In the Advertiser, these Olympic champions explain the strokes that make experts, and illustrate them with readily-understood pictures.

MAY YOHE'S AUTOBIOGRAPHY goes into its third chapter tomorrow. This glamorous actress of the Gay Nineties reveals the dazzling and exceedingly romantic events that preceded her marriage to lord Francis Hope of England, tells why she married into the innermost circles of British aristocracy, and discloses the ambitious program that made her the most talked-about woman of her day.

OTHER FASCINATING FEATURES in the Advertiser's Green and Smart Set Magazine sections include: "The Mad Killers of the Bay State," the true story of the notorious Millen gang; WHY the popular song, "Beer-Barrel Polka," was written; sparkling columns by Walter Winchell, George Holland, Mark Hellinger and Cholly Knickerbocker, and two full pages of pictures of Boston society favorites at Myopia's famous polo games.

IN THE NEWS there appears the experience of a reporter who became a "sandhog" for a day, descended 30 feet under the busy streets of the Back Bay and learned a hundred and one interesting things about the new Huntington Avenue subway, now reaching the half-way mark on the road to completion and acceptance.

HERE, TOO, you will find a delightful interview with Diana Barrymore, daughter of Actor John and his former wife, Michael Strange, poet and playwright.

An account of the elaborate arrangements made for the Boston visit of Crown Prince Olaf of Norway and his beautiful princess.

And that tremendously popular "WHOZIT" baseball contest, which offers prizes every true bleacher fan wants to win.

THE AMERICAN WEEKLY, the nation's most widely read magazine, promises a whole day's enjoyment.

In this limited space we cannot list all the important features and articles. We can only suggest that you read such pleasing and instructive stories as:

"Cocos Island—Old Pirates' Haven, to Be U. S. Warplane Base?—an absorbing revival of the tales of treacherous torture and fiendish ferocity which two centuries ago caused this bloody playground of the buccaneers to be feared throughout the world.

"New Hope for Little Victims of Infantile Paralysis"—an account of the experiments in growing nerve fibers back into helpless muscles.

"The Jilt That Jolted King Zog Off His Throne"—the report of how Albania's haughty ruler spurned an ambitious little princess to marry his sophisticated Geraldine and of what the vengeful father of the young woman later did.

ROYALTY ON WAY TO HUB

and Amory Coolidge, at Manchester where they will be guests during their visit.

The Coolidge home, a showplace of the North Shore, is a brick and marble structure where the late World War President, Woodrow Wilson, was a house guest in the summer of 1918.

On Sunday Crown Prince Olav will celebrate his 36th birthday at a private luncheon at the Coolidge home. Later he will take a short cruise in Malcolm Greenough's yacht "White Lady."

125 TO MEET ROYALTY

About 125 guests will be privileged to meet the Crown Prince and Princess before the luncheon which will be served at tables on the terrace under a marquee.

Among the members of the younger set who will be present are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Woods, Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Hall, Mr. Chandler Bigelow, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Coolidge, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gilbert, Senator and Mrs. Henry Cabot Lodge, Miss Eleanor Sears, Miss Katherine Winthrop, Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Dearborn, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Greenough.

Monday morning the royal visitors will call upon Gov. Saltonstall at the State House and Mayor Tobin at City Hall. Their program also includes visits to M. I. T., and Harvard University.

They will be luncheon guests of Consul and Mrs. Ursin at the Brookline Country Club, to which 70 leaders of the city's business, civic and social life have also been invited, and in the afternoon will attend a Festival of Welcome concert at Symphony Hall to be given by 90 members of the Boston Symphony orchestra, conducted by Arthur Fiedler.

PRINCE TO SAIL RACE

At 5 p. m. Crown Princess Martha and the royal entourage will entrain for New York, but Crown Prince Olav will remain at Manchester overnight in order to take part in the championship races of the Corinthian Yacht Club at Marblehead on the holiday.

The Crown Prince, an able seaman, will be in the crew of the "Moose," owned by John S. Lawrence of Topsfield, in the 30 square meter class.

Royal Couple Coolidge Guests

After an official welcome at South Station at 6:25 o'clock tonight, Crown Prince Olav and Crown Princess Martha of Norway will motor to the Manchester home of Mrs. T. Jefferson Coolidge. They will drive via Federal street, through Postoffice square and Dock square, past the Cradle of Liberty, to Sumner tunnel, and then on to the North Shore.

Woman's Bones Found on Dump

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 1 (AP)—Eighteen newspaper-wrapped human bones found on a municipal dump were examined by authorities today to determine if they might be linked with a murder.

The bones were from the body of a person dead from seven to nine months, and apparently were those of a woman between 20 and 40, Coroner David H. Hauser said.

Police reported the paper dated August 23 (Des Moines Sunday Register-Tribune) carried an account of the search for Mrs. Alice McDonnell Parsons, never located since her disappearance from Stony Brook, N. Y., June 9, 1937.

Mouse, Turtle Pet Show Bests

A mouse and a turtle, both owned by the same small boy, stole the show today at the First Annual Pet Show sponsored by the Boys' Clubs of Boston at the Hayden Clubhouse playground.

The judges, Mrs. Edith Washburn Clark, of the M. S. P. C. A., and Dr. H. M. Tabbut, of the Animal Rescue League, picked the mouse at the "smallest pet" and the turtle as the "most unusual." Both are owned by James Lydon, of Bowen street, South Boston.

"Largest pet" was a dog the size of a small calf, owned by Patrick Joyce of West Seventh street, South Boston. John Cassford, of Bowen street, received a prize for the best trained dog. The medal for the best dog in the show went to Harry Etchells, of Old Harbor street, South Boston.

The show was held under the direction of Arthur T. Bergen, Boys' Clubs director.

Crash Hurts Son Of Newbury Official

NEWBURY, July 1 (AP)—Lloyd Owen, 22, son of Selectman Thomas F. Owen, and John Eaton, 19, were critically injured today when their automobile crashed into a tree. Both were removed to Anna Jaques Hospital, Newburyport. Their names were placed on the danger list.

ROYAL COUPLE'S SCHEDULE HERE

After a dashing North Shore week-end, the royal couple will make a series of public appearances throughout Greater Boston on Monday. Their itinerary is as follows:

FUNERALS 'BARBARIC,' SAYS MOTHER KILLER

HOLLYWOOD, July 1 (AP)—Because "funerals are barbaric," Campbell McDonald, 25, did not attend last rites for the mother he confessed slaying.

"She is dead. Nothing more can be done for her," the handsome youth said of Mrs. Margaret Campbell, 56, silent screen actress.

He readily re-enacted the Sunday night hammer slaying.

"We were too close, I guess," he told Police Capt. Dalton R. Patton. "Mother told me I was losing my mind. She said she was going to send me to an institution."

"I had one nervous breakdown a couple of years ago when I was working 70 or 80 hours a week as a dishwasher."

Captain Patton expressed belief today that, although McDonald has confessed the killing, he never will be brought to trial.

"It is my opinion he will be found insane and ordered to an asylum.

"We will file a murder charge Thursday, after the inquest."

Captain Patton said McDonald had not been eliminated as a suspect in the bludgeon slaying of Anya Sosoyeva or the clubbing of Delis Bogard, both dancers and drama students at City College, where his mother formerly taught.

Reno Divorce Granted To Mrs. Mabel Hayes

Unhappy ending to another society wedding was written today with a Reno divorce granted Mrs. Mabel Stimpson Hayes of Concord, from Kenneth L. Hayes, wealthy Boston and Concord socialite.

Mrs. Hayes, who had recently lived at a "dude ranch" near the famous Nevada divorce colony, won her freedom on grounds of cruelty. She was given a property settlement. The couple have no children.

The Hayes home in Ripley rd., Concord, is one of the historic town's showplaces, situated atop a high hill overlooking Revolutionary battlefields.

Hayes is well known as an industrial real estate expert. His wife is the daughter of Harry F. Stimpson of Beacon st., Brookline, wealthy investment banker.

Hayes is a member of several exclusive clubs, including the Concord Country Club, where he is ranked as a top-notch golfer.

Old N. Y. Hippodrome To Be Demolished

NEW YORK, July 1 (AP)—The New York Hippodrome, for 35 years the scene of vast musical extravaganzas, vaudeville and opera, is to be demolished.

Store tenants along the Sixth avenue frontage of the famed "Hip" were notified today they must vacate by Sept. 1.

Co-operation!

KANSAS CITY, Kan., July 1 (AP)—County officers agreed to parole Frank Casella, 30, from the last half of his one-year sentence for bicycle theft if he would leave town.

He pleaded guilty and the judge said "five years."

Bad Half Year For Stock Market

"Stocks headed upward again in April but it was a bad half year for them" . . . To this legend under the chart on this page might well be appended . . . "The war lords of Europe dealt it such a stunning blow in the closing days of June that it finished the period paralyzed with fear" . . .

UNCERTAINTIES . . . Abroad affecting stock prices were matched equally by political fumbling at home, however, so it is not quite fair to blame all the market's troubles on war . . . The four year chart supplied by the Associated Press covers a period of travail for business that is unequalled in history . . . Readers should find the graph of sufficient value to warrant preserving it as a pertinent record . . . The descriptive events marking arc in themselves of great usefulness . . . If only because of the sure manner in which various favored political philosophies are debunked . . . Time and again the price curve turned down following adoption of some greatly "desired" scheme . . .

THE OTHER SIDE . . . Of the graphic record shows that when efforts were made to reassure people equity values responded . . . On several occasions inspiration was supplied by the courts . . . With the notable feature in this connection being the letdowns that followed upholding of particular legislation best described as unwanted by business . . . Getting back to the war scare angle it is worth studying the rebounds which followed their passing . . . At present the average if continued to the edge of the chart drops to midway between 40 and 50 . . . Should the crisis pass in the next week or so precedent leads us to believe a sharp upturn might develop . . .

RETAIL SALES . . . Continue the brightest item in reviews of New England business conditions . . . They have bucked the whole gamut of unfavorable weather conditions since the turn of the year . . . And the latest weekly report from Dun & Bradstreet shows them still climbing above comparative 1938 results . . . At present the demand for summer merchandise following school closings is the principal demand factor . . .

INDUSTRIAL . . . Trends feature a distinct improvement in the entire leather industry . . . From hides and skins to finished products reports are most cheering . . . Tanners are booked to capacity for the next month . . . With one or two leading units set for capacity operations for six weeks . . . Prices, needless to say, are reflecting this desirable status with a very firm performance . . .

DIVIDEND . . . Of $2 or two per cent a share has been declared by directors of Denison Manufacturing of Framingham . . . It is on the company's debenture stock . . Treasurer and General Manager W. E. P. Howell informs us it is payable August 1 to stockholders of record July 20 . . .

Stir Over Devaluation

The stir at Washington over devaluation is of direct concern to the 64,000,000 holders of policies in American life insurance companies.

Likewise it is of interest to the 44,000,000 owners of American savings accounts amounting in the aggregate to some 24,000 millions.

Savings represent goods produced which remain unconsumed, and usually are available in the form of tools to facilitate additional production.

Insurance policies are long-term calls under which policyholders and their beneficiaries (or heirs) may demand dollars from the insurance companies in future years under stipulated contingencies.

If politicians through overspending or otherwise decide to get by through clipping coins of part of their gold, they in effect tend to change the deals which millions of Americans have made with insurance companies and savings banks.

But curiously enough, communications between most financial institutions and their clients are frequently so stiff and formalized that they do not get across the realization that when politicians soak wealth they are soaking all the thrifty people of the nation.

Once officers of financial institutions learn to use language, pictures, and arithmetical symbols to express themselves simply and unmistakably they will help to interest the thrifty people of the nation in national fiscal affairs which bear directly on their own future economic security.

And the soundness of the currency is likewise equally important to the tens of millions of participants in the old age benefit provisions of the social security act.

The kind of dollars which the government pays out to those 65 and over will determine the living standards of the pensioners.

It is a healthy development to diffuse so widely among the people direct stakes in the soundness of the currency and of the nation's economic life.

Historically, whenever the subject of inflation used to come up, seductive politicians would try to make it appear that diluting the value of the dollar would injure only a small and select group, the bloated bondholders.

But nowadays the creditor class is vastly wider. As a matter of fact it is larger numerically than the debtor class.

Every holder of a life insurance policy, a savings account, or a social security card now belongs to the creditor class.

H.O.L. Sets New Record For Sales

WASHINGTON, July 1 — The sale of 4159 homes in May set a new record for the Home Owners' Loan Corporation for the second consecutive month and signalled the passing of the 50,000 mark in cumulative sales, Charles A. Jones, general manager, announced today.

The May sales, which amounted to $14,279,229, compared with 3761 in April, 3376 in March, 2391 in February and 2390 in January, and made a total of more than 16,000 since the first of the year.

"The increase of nearly 1000 sales in March over the number in February led us to predict an active real estate market for the spring season," said Jones. "If May figures are any indication, the upturn should continue for the summer."

Collections from HOLC borrowers as a whole were 99.5 per cent of billings in May, Mr. Jones said. Collections every month this year have shown a decided increase over corresponding months of 1938.

Selective Gains Dot Stock List

NEW YORK, July 1 (AP)—Traders managed to chisel modest and selective gains out of the stock market today as uneasiness over European war talk waned and the latest congressional monetary developments proved a neutral speculative influence.

The list picked its way carefully at the start, with timid buying in evidence in most departments. A slightly firmer tone appeared near the close and favorites displayed advances of fractions to around a point.

Boardroom customers on the short side covered here and there in order to be in the clear over the coming Fourth of July holiday. In addition mild investment purchasing provided some support. As the exchange wil be closed Tuesday, scant attendance in Wall Street was looked for Monday. The commission houses were all but deserted today and transfers for the two hours approximated only 200,000 shares.

Action of the Senate last night in permitting the President's devaluation authority and the stabilization fund to expire paparently left the market cold, inasmuch as it was realized the Senate-House conference bill, extending the administration's dollar control, could be voted when Congress reconvenes Wednesday.

Foreign exchange quotations, both in this country and abroad, were normal, inasmuch as New York banks began Saturday closings today and most European centers were shut down as usual for the week-end. Banking opinion, though, was that the dropping of the Treasury's stabilization fund was only temporary.

You Can Be Beautiful

IT'S ANYTHING but smart to load down your wrist with the choicest of bangles and charms, and then let your manicure show deplorable chips! Mary Healy keeps her nails shining and flawless, changing the polish several times a week herself. It doesn't take long, particularly if you have at hand the quick manicure aid Arline Gould discovered, and it gives your nails more chance to breathe between shellackings!

For Minute Manicures

By ARLINE GOULD

JUST THINK of all the spare moments you might have used in really getting your fingernails to look like jewels, if you only had the materials to work with right at hand! Then you wouldn't have to flutter your hands and apologize for the cracked-off enamel. And maybe your glamour rating with the boys wouldn't take a steep rise!

One of the world's favorite polish makers has just upped with a remarkable little kit for a dollar—value plus if we ever saw the likes of a value.

Not much bigger than a compact, made of a tweedy herringbone cotton, smartly piped, and it holds all you really need for a quick manicure.

Skipper blue and white is piped with navy, red and white with red, and beige with brown. It just goes with good-looking luggage or a [illegible] summer purse.

It will slip into the pocket of your tweed reefer or your sports dress. While you wait for your husband to finish with the interminable showers he likes to plunge around in, after a round of golf, or while you wait for [illegible] in the early evening, [illegible] wherever you have a few minutes, this "quick trick" will provide jewel-like nails for you.

In it is a very big bottle of oily polish remover. This one has no caustic or acid in it to harm your nails. There is a small orange wood stick and emery, and a polish which is acceded to be among the topflight favorites.

To learn about this compact manicure for a dollar, phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, weekdays until 5:30, or write, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Proper Food for Picnics

By MARTHA LEE

Food that is served at a picnic should survive transportation without change in flavor, texture or appearance. Picnic food should also be satisfying to an outdoor appetite and provide the nourishment demanded by outdoor activities.

To retain its freshness and appetizing appearance it should be carefully packed. Each sandwich should be first wrapped separately in waxed paper and then a napkin wrung from cold water wrapped around the whole.

[illegible] salads or desserts should be carried in the mold and removed just before serving. Tarts are a [illegible] of carrying pies in such form that they can be easily packed and eaten from the fingers.

MEAT SANDWICHES

[illegible] sandwiches provide hearty [illegible] for outdoor appetites and when [illegible] prepared they are relished by [illegible].

POTATO SALAD

3 cold potatoes, cut in cubes
1 tsp [illegible]
1 tbsp chopped parsley
¾ cup chopped celery
½ tbsp chopped onion
6 radishes or 2 pimientoes (chopped)
Mayonnaise

This makes a grand variation of the popular potato salad. Men vote it a favorite for the Sunday night supper, picnics—and almost any occasion that calls for potato salad.

Mix potatoes, salt, celery, rad[illegible] and parsley. Add enough mayonnaise to moisten well. Put in refrigerator to absorb some of the dressing and be[illegible] Arrange [illegible] of [illegible] top with [illegible]

Shower

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1—Is it considered proper for a person to give a shower for her husband's sister?

2—As I am not acquainted with all the relatives on my husband's side of the family, I would prefer to have no relatives. Do you think this would cause hurt feelings?

DOROTHY

1—It isn't considered in good taste for the members of the family of either the prospective bride or the prospective groom to give a bridal shower.

2—If you do decide to give the shower you might limit your invitations to very close friends of the bride-to-be.

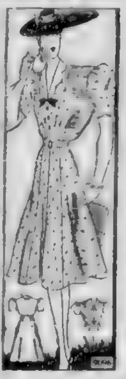
Marian Martin Pattern

Slenderness can be a matter of optical illusion. Marian Martin's Pattern 9096 does its work of slimming with subtle, deft touches. The skirt's double front panels appear to be smart and trim, yet they give you wonderfully tall, slim lines. The bodice merely looks cool and soft, yet clever darts at shoulders and waist give you the freedom you need and the bow-and-button trim makes the eye travel vertically. The scalloped collar is becoming in snow-white or self-material. The scalloped sleeves may be made in either straight or short flare version. Use the Sew Chart to take you quickly step-by-step.



Pattern 9096 may be ordered only in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 3⅞ yards 39 inch fabric.

Send 15 cents in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address, and style number.

Swing into summer in a lighthearted mood with a wardrobe-ful of new clothes. Even if your budget won't "budge," you can find a way by ordering Marian Martin's new pattern book and stitching up your summer things at home.

Fashion Flash

SEEMS as though everyone in the world is getting into flat or wedge-soled sandals, and the sock counters are doing a rushing business. For socks and sandals are a fine, comfortable couple.

You may have your socks short and rumpled or pulled mid-calf high and neatly as the royal princesses' but if you have any pretensions at all to a sock wardrobe you'll own a few fancy ones.

Plaid ribbons lace the front of a sock that's pretty cut. And another has streamers of ribbon, about two inches long, dangling from the side.

Embroidered peasant motifs, like scattered bright flowers, prettify another pair of socks. And we've seen some very proud English socks of choice soft wool with embroidered monograms in the front.

POOR Young PEOPLE

By MAY EDGINTON

Author of 'FAVORITE WIFE'

She was forty-eight and, she thought, fascinating. To him she was just one more victim.

DAY and her mother hugged each other tightly.

Laura cried: "Time I came back to look after you, I think!"

"You—look after me?"

"Well, I'm your mother," Laura said.

"Come in."

"Come in," echoed a drier voice over Day's shoulder.

Mrs. York stood there, alert, on guard.

She also wore a cotton overall.

Laura, dressed in her usual cheap flimsies, appeared a woman of fashion. Her touch of powder, lipstick, mascara, set her apart from Mrs. York's lean unadornment.

"Mrs. York?" Laura said prettily, extending a hand.

Yet, prettily as she spoke, her voice clamored with hostility

"And Mrs. Flowers? Day's mother at last?"

They shook hands.

Laura said with magnificence, accomplishing rash decision in one moment: "I've come to take Day and baby away."

She hadn't thought of so drastic a proceeding until this actual second of time. "Where's my grandson?"

Leaving Mrs. York staring, Laura followed her daughter through to the garden, where the baby lay sleeping.

Here she hung over him. "It seems so . . . extraordinary that I should be a grandmother. But . . . I've been so proud . . . something to tell people about . . . And your husband?"

"He's in America showing his new car."

"Leaving you with that woman? Day . . ." and she showed herself at last astounded by her own negligence, ashamed: "Have you had a a—terrible time?"

Her very pale daughter explained:

"The only thing is . . . she wants to take the baby away from me says I—I'm not fit, enough. Could you help me, mother? Oh, help me!"

"I'm here to help you," Laura said. "I'm not going back. There's a lot to tell."

She burst into tears.

Much lay behind Laura Flowers' unexpected arrival in Egbury, at Wellington Villa. Since the day when she, with a worthless, but acquisitive, gigolo sort of young man, Peter Peters, had fluttered out of Day's orbit at the end of September last year, life had hurt Laura, shocked and battered her as never before in her facile experience

Her early short married life had been a dull but kindly episode. If it hadn't left her with a little girl it would have been entirely profit. Marriage and widowhood with provision. Nothing in it, or her subsequent petty adventures had prepared her for a Peter Peters.

He was the product of peculiar post-1918 generation of young men who have fastened upon certain playgrounds, and want someone else to pay for their play thereon

A SAD STORY

Also, he came at the wrong time of her life, the time when silly women can grow sillier. She was forty-eight and fascinating. To him she was just one more victim.

"Did I ever love him?" she had asked herself furiously, since.

If not, how explain . . .?

She could remember hazily—hazily, and yet it was so recent—how in bewildered desperation, she started scolding him, but every time he was more than a match for her.

Her female friends were as out of date as she was herself. And every time that a squabble always over money, her money arose, she couldn't help thinking of her daughter in London.

Suddenly—at last that daughter attained planetary importance. She would say to him: "I'm not a poor woman looking for a little love, I assure you. You treat me as if you're my only hope! But I've a lovely daughter you saw her always popular with her school friends; such nice friends! And she's a success, too earning far more than you'll ever earn she's going into Lewis [illegible] Ice Ballet. She told me all about it in her last letter."

She had to make the most of Day's little nervous daughterly letters, just as Day herself had to make the most of Laura's sketchy ones.

"I remember your beautiful rich daughter," Peter Peters would sneer. "Hardly a rag to her back. Poor little brat! Ran home to Mammy, and Mammy didn't want her."

"Only because I was tangled up in your affairs." Laura could work herself up to fury in an argument of this sort.

Then it became: "Day's married, as, naturally, she would. Got a brilliant husband, a motor engineer who's designed a car that'll be a sensation, and he's going round the world with it. We may see them here at the next Battle of Flowers Who knows?"

A GRANDMOTHER

"Will his loving wife go with him then? I rather fancy she'd cramp his style."

"You don't know him!"

"Nor do you, it seems!"

Then Laura: "She's living at his mother's country house while he's away, because she's going to have a baby."

Peter Peters could still jibe "And how'll you like being a grandmother?"

But the more he made her hate him—and this he began to do carelessly but surely—the more the thought of being a grandmother appealed to Laura.

The more it mattered that a rather shattered 48 should have two lovely young things belonging to her.

When at length she made a hurried exit from the flat she and Peter shared over the hat shop which had been moderately successful—to a pension full of old Englishwomen, the idea fastened on her and she told these hostile respectable ladies:

"I'm here for a few days only. Just while I get ready to go home to see my little grandson." Heartstrings vibrated with this music! "Yes. The first. I feel my daughter will be wanting me, you know. Of course she's in the lap of luxury, staying at her mother-in-law's country house, her husband unfortunately having to go away, and so they've left their flat in town."

Shades of the high, humble, honeymoon room!

"But from my darling's letters, I can tell she wants me."

It seemed, just then, that one must must have a darling of one's own.

Sweet to be wanted!

But now this [illegible] the mean mother of the man whom lovely Day had married! The poverty of all the [illegible] for the baby, and only [illegible] baby [illegible]!

"You've come to take Day away?" Mrs. York echoed Laura. "Very sudden—most inconsiderate. Haven't I a right to be told when things like this are going to happen? Besides excuse me - you haven't my son's permission, have you? After all, my son is your daughter's husband."

"I'm afraid my daughter is not accustomed to all this sort of thing," said [illegible] round the [illegible].

[illegible] and [illegible].

"In my house," said Mrs. York, noticing the gesture, "fires are drawn at the end of March, and lighted again on the first of November! What, if I may inquire, do you do?"

"When I'm cold I have a fire," replied Laura. "[illegible] August or September. The calendar's nothing to me."

"You are very well off, I dare say."

"I must be careful what I say," Laura thought. [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] Mrs. York [illegible] for looking after Day. Only I want to take her away and give her a little [illegible] while she [illegible]."

THE unusually long weekend and the early beginning of the holiday observance make caution a MAJOR NEED throughout the United States and particularly in the New England area.

Thousands, attracted East by the New York World's Fair, will drive automobiles to our many mountain and seashore resorts.

Thousands of our own people will leave their city homes for the country, the Cape or the Maine and New Hampshire coasts.

As a result, highways will be taxed as never before and an unprecedented harvest of accidents invited.

But that will be only a part of the picture.

TOO LATE TO PREVENT ACCIDENT
But Not Too Late for Thousands Beginning Holiday

If the experience of the past is indicative of what may be expected this year, careless use of fireworks and a too-general disposition to "show off" in beach, river and lake waters will endanger hundreds of other persons.

Last July, 8720 Americans were killed in accidents of various kinds.

In one day—the Fourth 7933 men, women and children received injuries 911 in New England and 467 in Massachusetts.

Thought and proper attention to the fact that the misfortunes of other persons may quite conceivably be visited upon one's self would have prevented much of that suffering and grief.

The same healthy combination will also prevent a goodly amount of the sorrow which looms for thousands of families between now and next Wednesday morning.

"IS THERE A FUTURE for youth?" asks Elsie Robinson, famous columnist, who wisely advises:

"Stop talking about what is done and begin thinking of the countless prospects still unexplored."

American history supports Miss Robinson's contention, especially that part of American history which concerns the United States Patent Office in Washington.

There, inquisitive youth will find PROOF that between 1900 and 1930, the greatest 30-year period of invention and technological development in the experience of mankind, industrial activity in this country increased by more than TWENTY MILLION jobs.

The telephone, born of the studies of Alexander Graham Bell in a Boston garret, expanded rapidly during those three decades and today provides wages for more than 300,000 persons.

The automobile, universally ridiculed when Henry Ford and Charles Kettering were experimenting with it in the '90's, is giving work to 516,000 directly and to thousands of others indirectly.

The aircraft industry, made possible by the imaginative Wright Brothers, hires a minimum of 25,500.

Rayon, unknown 20 years ago, affords a livelihood for 57,000; radios and phonographs for 45,000; rubber tires and tubes for 63,600, petroleum refining for 82,400, and lighting and electrical equipment making for 278,400.

But this progress is only the BEGINNING. As Patent Office officials say, innumerable things can be done better, more easily and certainly more profitably.

Young men and women who take Miss Robinson's philosophy seriously, and put the gray matter in their heads to work, will very probably show the world HOW.

Determination of this kind transformed the late Thomas Edison from a low-waged telegrapher to the greatest inventor of all time and possessor of 1099 patents, including those of the electric light and "talking machine."

A like determination caused Carleton Ellis of Montclair, N. J., to receive patents on 750 inventions that assure him permanent immunity from "relief" and the WPA.

Human Side of News -:-

by EDWIN C. HILL

THE COURTS have reduced the taxes on Gardiner's Island, in Gardiner's Bay, off Saybrook, Conn., thirty thousand acres of concentrated New England romance—from three hundred thousand dollars to two hundred and fifty thousand.

A mere candlelight of news, but it illuminates 300 years of New England history and legend. For Gardiner's Island has been held by the Gardiner family ever since 1639 when the Earl of Sterling granted it to the first Lion Gardiner.

The present Lion Gardiner might well claim the distinction of being chief of the first family of America, still in possession of ancestral lands handed down from generation to generation. Old Lion the First, an English military engineer, came to Boston in 1635. A David Gardiner built a fine colonial mansion on the island in 1774, still in excellent repair.

IN THE TIME of David Gardiner's son John, the famous pirate Captain Kidd prowled Gardiner's Bay and made the island his rendezvous. He gave sweetmeats to Lady Gardiner for her children, and fine presents of cloth-of-gold which she dared not refuse.

Captain Kidd buried much treasure on the island for which the unwise are still digging gold and silver coin, precious stones, silver candlesticks, gold bars and gold dust. He confided his secret to Lord John Gardiner.

He told Lord John to keep the treasure if he never returned, but if he ever called and found it missing, Lord John would pay for it with his head.

When the Earl of Bellomont was Governor of New York, he ordered Gardiner to surrender the treasure for the use of the king, and Lord Gardiner dug it up and turned it over to a commission. And that is the real story of the famous buried treasure of Captain Kidd.

COMMENTATOR EDWIN C. HILL
"Buried Treasure Is Again on Front Pages"

Buried treasure, is again on front pages, and breathless hunts for it in regions as far apart as New York's Long Island, Robert Louis Stevenson's Treasure Island which is really the Isle of Pines, off Cuba—and in the mountains of Bolivia.

Over in Roslyn Hills, Long Island, on one of the old areas going back to 1709, an estate of the Valentine, Robbins, Onderdonk and Skillman families, they are digging these days for the treasure buried just before the Revolutionary War by an Onderdonk—silverware, jewelry and gold and silver coin.

WASHINGTON, July 1—The New Deal foreign-entanglement policy is traced in a pattern so clear and distinct that a Boy Scout could follow it.

That pattern has taken more definite shape in Congress this week, as the internationalists back-tracked rather than face defeat on the anti-neutrality resolution of Sol Bloom.

In October two years ago, Mr. Roosevelt in a speech at Chicago gave us the first rough blue print.

He undertook on his own responsibility to say that the United States proposed to quarantine aggressor nations.

UPON such things as "isolation" and "neutrality" he poured his scorn. They would not help us to escape from the disasters of an European war.

The American people were to be prepared for the eventual repeal of the mandatory arms embargo, and for the further extension of Presidential power in the field of foreign affairs. The ground-work was laid for the eventual Bloom Bill.

It is important to remember that the American people did not take kindly to that quarantine speech. The President was checked. For a time.

The President waited a little while and then went to Canada and made a [illegible] speech as a reminder to the dictators that if any of them tried to invade our northern neighbor and sister we would not permit it.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT
"Came the Bloom Bill"

In January, 1939, the President in his message to Congress traced the pattern a bit further by reminding the nation that in dealing with the bad dictators there were "many methods short of war."

Mr. Ickes took a crack at Hitler, and when Germany formally protested at the State Department, Mr. Hull in substance backed up his cabinet colleague, and Mr. Roosevelt pointedly paid a social visit to Mr. Ickes at his country home, on the day the protest was lodged at the State Department.

In February the President scared the Senate Military Affairs Committee and gave the country the jitters, by imparting secret information of alarming character—or so it was represented.

At Key West the President was to hurry back to Washington in a jiffy, if anything happened.

It was being made clear to the world that the President was down on the European dictators, and out to smash the axis. He made an appeal to Hitler—and got it smacked back!

CAME THE BLOOM BILL, to repeal the mandatory arms embargo, a provision of law which tied the President's hand, and grant a further extension of power to the Executive.

While this was pending before one House Committee, a bill was quietly laid before another committee by the terms of which the United States Treasury would be empowered to underwrite war risk insurance on foreign vessels, their cargoes, officers and crews, in time of war.

By these various tracings the pattern of complete un-neutrality was drawn, and yet, with that cynicism and effrontery which have so completely characterized the New Deal, that anti-neutrality was made to wear the false whiskers of neutrality.

TUNNEY RECALLS HIS FIGHTING DAYS

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, July 1—This is information: JOE LOUIS: After seeing all the blood spilled at the Yankee Stadium, Gene Tunney confided: "When I was a fighter I prayed before each bout. I never prayed that I should win. I prayed only that I shouldn't get hurt.". . . FRANCES PERKINS: The newly-erected Colbert's Restaurant is located in a building owned by the British Crown. The management registered no complaint concerning the labor costs in the construction job. The British Crown had advised them that, at any cost, there was to be no labor conflict.

MAYOR LaGUARDIA: Basil Davenport of the Book-of-the-Month Club read a copy of the New York City Guide, was so fascinated by its contents this week that he decided to explore those regions of Manhattan which still were unfamiliar to him . . . The other night Davenport, following the Guide's instructions, went to the Harlem River, started to walk along the bank and was pounced upon by three men. They blackjacked him and stole all his money.

GROUCHO MARX: Your brother, Harpo, who never utters a word onstage or in the movies, was introduced at a luncheon, where the toastmaster said: "For the first time, Harpo Marx instead of his brothers will have something to say. Now say it, Harpo". . . Harpo arose. "I say," was the only sentence he spoke, "I wish my brothers were here."

HARPO MARX

L. B. MAYER: George Jessel saw Jack Benny making a bet at the racetrack and asked: "Did you get a good tip?". . . "It was this way," Benny explained. "I saw L. B. Mayer sitting in his box. He was sipping an ice cream soda and" . . . "That's enough," Jessel assured. "A guy couldn't wish for better information than that. But tip me off—if Mayer orders a cup of coffee.". . . F. D. R.: Colonel Lindbergh has taken an apartment at The Anchorage, on Connecticut Avenue, in Washington.

LOU LITTLE: Sid Luckman, star of your Columbia football team, who was drafted by the Chicago Bears, says he'll be a holdout. He wants to play only for the Brooklyn team . . . SOMERSET MAUGHAM: It was nice of you to include a Dorothy Parker story in your new anthology. When Dorothy was asked how much she'd want for the radio rights to one story and was told that your price is $750, she said: "If Maugham's price is $750, then mine is worth $1.68" . . . ELMER LAYDON: When Fred Snite, Jr., the Boy in the Iron Lung, dined at the Brazilian Pavilion he asked the band to play the Notre Dame football song. The rhumba musicians didn't know it, so a member of the Snite party hummed it for them. Then they played it while Fred joined in the singing.

BOSTON After DARK

By JAMES A. "JIM" FARLEY'S DEPARTMENT

Or notes from the mailsack while George Holland is ending his vacation.

DEAR GEORGE: Just as a reminder:—you were undoubtedly the first journalist to predict that Earl Long would succeed Governor Leche in Louisiana and that the latter would resign . . . You ran this almost two years ago . . . What a beat!

Incidentally I ran into Helen Dell and her mother, who, as you know, are sister and mother of the late Dorothy Dell . . . They tell me that there have been some published statements to the effect that Dorothy Lamour has been high-hatting them, but Mrs. Dell said that this was not so . . . that Dorothy Lamour—who was introduced to Paramount by the Dells, and of course, was runner-up to Dorothy Dell in a bathing review in New Orleans years ago—is still very friendly and helpful to the young Dell girl . . . She hopes also to succeed on stage and in pictures . . . Sincerely, Bill Coker.

(Ed. note: The predicted Earl Long succession to his late brother's executive chair, after Governor Leche's resignation, was derided by New Orleans newspapers after its publication.)

DEAR GEORGE: On account of I've left San Francisco—on account of the closing of "The Follies"—and (doubly important) on account of I'm here in Hollywood with the Al Duffys, I'm sending this note . . . Triply important—is on account of the "picking up" of Al's contract with Columbia pictures—and that's an occasion . . . Then there is Beth, and the two girls—the swimming pool, and lastly but not in the least—their lovely home and the dog . . . That explains why I'm not home yet . . . But I will be, perhaps by the first of next week . . . Love to you and all the gang, Dorothy Johnson.

(Ed. note: Miss Johnson is the Shuberts' Boston press-agent . . . Al Duffy was her predecessor . . . Al also wrote a column in this newspaper called "Man About Town" . . . Finally, he is a success.)

"BOSTON AFTER DARK," ATT. G. H.: Clarence Saunders, the famous "Piggly-Wiggly" man, is in Boston, and a good reporter should be able to learn what he's up to . . . One of the most brilliant promoters in America, Mr. Saunders is here, obviously, on business . . . Can't you track him down, and let us know what is what? . . . Al Winston

(Ed. note: Mr. Saunders was sighted in a Boston night club at midnight—his steel-grey hair waving gently to the breezes of an open door . . . With him were Ralph Hornblower, the Boston broker, and Herbert W. Jackson, the insurance man . . . In 1917, "Stonewall" Jackson was all-American end for the Navy . . . He also stroked the crew and was light-heavyweight champion at Annapolis . . . Clues maybe?)

DEAR GEORGE: The boys will be on hand to welcome you back from your vacation . . . They're all prepared for some tall stories about your piscatorial conquests, as Huntington R. "Tack" Hardwick revealed in his Boston After Dark guest column that you had acquired a rod and reel previous to starting your vacation . . . All your guest columnists have carried on nobly, George . . . Your readers enjoyed them. Paul Whelton.

DEAR HOLLAND: Why [illegible] that vacation a summer instead of a fortnight? The column has been fairly good . . . [illegible] commissioner. (No comment.)

LISTEN, WORLD!

Questing Soul or Itching Heel?

By Elsie Robinson

DON'T MIND ME. I'm just doing some thinking aloud. You don't have to agree with me, probably won't. I'm not sure I agree with myself. But I'm certainly doing a pile of wondering.

It's about John Steinbeck's new novel, "The Grapes of Wrath" (The Viking press). Everybody's talking of Nothing Else But.

Is it true? Are the 'Okies'—those homeless Dust Bowl refugees—really pouring into California like that by the desperate thousands? Old folk dying on the way—heartbroken. Young folk going wild, having babies, brawling, starving?

YES, as a Californian I might's well admit—they are. 'Tisn't California's fault. Nor the Dust Bowl's fault. If it's anybody's fault, blame it on those Dumb Dads of ours who didn't get ready for a Machine Age when they saw it coming. And wouldn't be told.

It is true, what John Steinbeck says. Taking the book by and large, it's an amazingly accurate and tolerant performance, as well as the greatest writing this century will probably see. BUT—

There are a lot of things which John Steinbeck DOESN'T say which are also true, and it's of those that I'm thinking aloud today. There is a motive behind this [illegible] WHAT IS THAT MOTIVE?

John Steinbeck [illegible] ECONOMIC NECESSITY [illegible] SOCIAL INJUSTICE for [illegible] gypsies . . . and go sick [illegible] agony.

Well, I go sick [illegible] I was one of them drifters once myself. [illegible]

Yes, I go sick too. [illegible] But my pity doesn't stop [illegible] I'm thinking of [illegible] STANDARD OF [illegible]

SO that's why [illegible] pity all this [illegible] us credit. But does [illegible] buying us?

Does he know that [illegible] grip you harder [illegible] booze or dope?

Does he know [illegible] ficial habit and [illegible] to call?

The old [illegible] yes. But the young [illegible] HOW ABOUT THEM?

Will they be content [illegible] week job when they've known the [illegible] of the Gypsy trail? Are they [illegible] or just by an itching heel? I WONDER.

Normandie's screen features through Monday are "Oklahoma Kid," with James Cagney and Rosemary Lane, and "Wings of the Navy," co-starring George Brent and Olivia DeHavilland.

Medford's Square Theater and Back Bay's Repertory Theater are showing "Hollywood Doubles," a one-hour musical revue featuring the screen players who double for your favorite stars.

"Ecstasy," starring Hedy Lamarr, continues for another week at the Newsreel Theater, where it has been shown for seven weeks. It is being well received and it is probable that it will be held over throughout July.

Louis Fight Films At Boston, Memorial

Due to the exceptional interest displayed in the official blow by blow pictures of the Louis Galento fight, they have also been added to the program of the Keith Memorial Theater, according to an announcement from Harry McDonald, New England division manager for the RKO-Keith Theaters.

The Boston and Memorial Theaters are the only Boston theaters showing the complete four rounds of fighting, having the exclusive first run privileges. Some of the scenes are in close-up slow motion.

'NAUGHTY BUT NICE' BOOKED FOR PARAMOUNT, FENWAY

LOVE TRIANGLE—Here we have two-thirds of a love triangle in swingtime with Dick Powell and Ann Sheridan in a scene from "Naughty But Nice" coming to the Paramount and Fenway next Thursday.

Dick Powell, Ann Sheridan In Warners' Film Leads

"Naughty But Nice," Warner Brothers' spicy love triangle in swingtime, featuring a host of top-notch screen personalities, headed by Ann Sheridan, Dick Powell, Gale Page, Helen Broderick, Ronald Reagan, Allen Jenkins, Zasu Pitts and Maxie Rosenbloom, will top the new bill Thursday.

Sharing program honors will be Warner's "The Man Who Dared," frank tale of an average American family's battle against dictatorship methods, featuring Jane Bryan, Henry O'Neil and Charles Grapewin.

"Naughty But Nice," a comedy romance featuring five outstanding musical hits, is the riotous saga of a serious young music professor who comes to the big city to sell his classical compositions in Tin Pan Alley. Instead, Tin Pan Alley sells him the idea of writing swing tunes based on old classics.

The adventures of the staid young professor when he falls into the clutches of the swing music publishers and his dizzy, romantic entanglements with two gorgeous charmers provides one continuous cycle of mad, merry hilarity.

Dick Powell, as the bewildered professor; Ann Sheridan, as the "oomph" girl of the night clubs, and Gale Page, as the charming and talented composer of popular songs, provide the romantic interest.

Libby Holman At Ogunquit

Clifton Webb and Libby Holman, who sang and danced together on Broadway in "The First Little Show," "Three's a Crowd" and "You Never Know," [illegible] teamed again as co-stars in Walter Hartwig's production of "Burlesque" at the Ogunquit Playhouse during the week beginning Monday evening.

Mr. Webb and Miss Holman play the roles originally created in the New York production by the late Hal Skelly and Barbara Stanwyck, who later rose to stardom in motion pictures. "Burlesque," a sentimental comedy of backstage life, was written by George Manker Watters and Arthur Hopkins, and ran to packed houses for a year on Broadway.

The action of the play revolves around the rise and fall of a small-time burlesque comedian, and of the sacrifices made for him by his wife as he climbs to fame.

"Burlesque" will be presented for one week only with evening performances at 8:30 o'clock, D. S. T., and a matinee performance on Friday at 2:30 D. S. T.

Hollywood Paragraphs

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, July 1.—Talked with Mae West at length yesterday, and if Bill Fields ever had a booster it's his new movie partner. She says she and Bill will be starred side by side in that new picture Grover Jones is writing for them at Universal.

Mae says there will be no trouble over whose name comes first on the marquee and that Bill will have a chance to do all the things he alone can do.

"There is only one Fields," says Mae, "and why should I or any one else try to change his style?"

Her signature has just been put on a ticket which calls for three Universal comedies starring her. But "Catherine The Great," her heart's desire, isn't listed because it is too expensive an undertaking.

A comforting thought, indeed, for the young stars who work so hard is that there'll be no more repetition of the Jackie Coogan mixup. As we said earlier in the week, Deanna Durbin's is the first contract to be signed under the new "Jackie Coogan Law" protecting minors' salaries.

Her ticket calls for five years during which time she will make close to a million dollars, which is far from peanuts. Of course there [illegible] also the Deanna Commodities which bring in a neat little fortune, so it is nice to know she will be well protected, although knowing her mother and what a grand job she has done with Deanna, she probably has her savings already well invested.

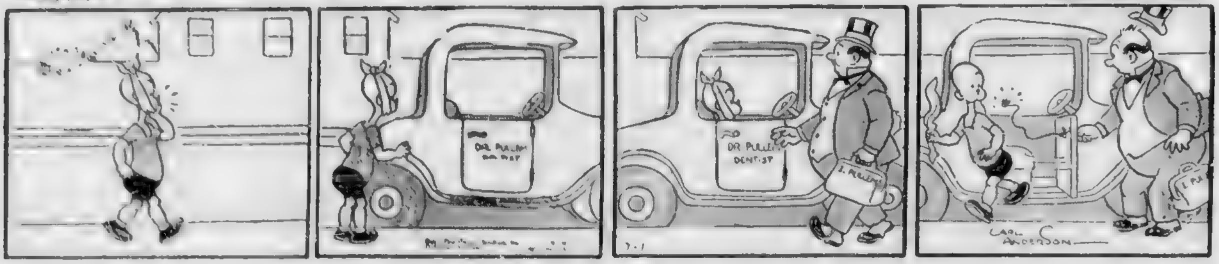
And No Fee!



Mr. BOSTON

By JACK CONWAY

THE TONY GALENTO left hook that floored Joe Louis will probably be responsible for several thousand young heavyweights entering the professional boxing field . . . When Louis was regarded as unbeatable, there was not any great urge to become a heavyweight fighter . . . The best one could hope for was to have his ears pinned back in a title contest with the "Brown Bomber" . . . Now that the aged and rotund Galento has proved that Louis can be tipped over, every cross road has some young scrapper who would like to toss punches at the champion.

The lighting bill for a night ball game in Brooklyn is $1800 . . . With attendance figures of 20,000 to 30,000 at these night games, the lighting cost is only small change . . . Night baseball will give Connie Mack's Athletics a new lease of life . . . Connie has reached a point where he hasn't got any more ball players to sell, and so has been obliged to turn to baseball under the lights to get money with which to meet the overhead . . . Regardless of the merits of night baseball, it has come to stay.

There are more people who can attend ball games at night than during the day, with the exception of Sunday and possible Saturdays . . . One of the reasons for the success of dog racing is that it is conducted at night when the masses can visit the tracks and bet on their favorite greyhounds.

Jack Dempsey Leading Sports Idol

THE FIRST news of the serious illness of Jack Dempsey was a terrific shock to the sports world, and the public reaction proved the hold the former champion has upon people everywhere.

For years Dempsey has been America's No. 1 sports character. He was a great ring champion, and as a former champion he continued as an ambassador of good will for the boxing game and for other sports.

Dempsey always did his utmost to help people. He once made a wild automobile ride at night from Nashua, N. H., where he was refereeing a wrestling show to the Boston Garden so that he could act as third man in the ring at a Christmas Basket Fund boxing show.

Dempsey never refused an invitation to visit boys' clubs or hospitals when it was possible for him to do so. He seemed to have unlimited energy and a happy faculty of making and keeping friends.

I would rate Babe Ruth as America's No. 2 sports hero. Ruth would be among the first to place Dempsey at the top of the list.

Lou Gehrig Monument

Organized baseball could build an outstanding monument to Lou Gehrig before the children of this Nation, if the management was inclined to give the proceeds from one day's game to The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Inc., of which Keith Morgan is Chairman.

Baseball has never done much in a charitable way, particularly nationally, although its big business is based on back-lot games of children.

If this suggestion meets with your approval, I sincerely trust that you will give it a boost in your paper today.

D. Walker Wear,
Senior Member New York State Athletic Commission
Assistant Chairman of the above Committee.

Baseball is certain to resent the statement that it has never done much in a charitable way. In recent years our Boston baseball teams have assisted the local welfare fund, while in other ways men connected with baseball have done their part to relieve the suffering of the unfortunate.

Random Shots at Target

THERE WILL be a set of track and field championships under the Department of Massachusetts Jewish War Veterans at the Chelsea Memorial Stadium on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 13 . . . Entries should be sent to Major Sam Smith, No. 168 Seaver street, Roxbury . . . The events include 100 yards dash, 22 yards dash, 440 yards dash, 880 yards dash, one mile run, three miles run, two miles run, running high jump, running broad jump, pole vault for height and putting the 16 pound shot.

Damon Runyon tells me that if Lou Smith and Walter O'Hara are to become associated with racing in New Jersey it will be necessary for them to affiliate themselves with strong financial and political groups in Mayor Frank Hague's State . . . Runyon says everybody in New Jersey and in New York believes there will be fortunes in the pari-mutuel system of betting, and so there is quite a rush to get in on the ground floor . . . There is still plenty of time for Smith and O'Hara to make any moves they wish in New Jersey.

O'Hara is devoting most of his attention to his proxy contest with Judge James E. Dooley that will be decided at the annual meeting of Narragansett Park on July 3 . . . Smith has been a pioneer in horse racing in New England and in Texas, and a new field always appeals to him . . . Lou has strong connections in Jersey and in New York.

Foxx, Tabor, Doerr Rush to Red Sox Aid

HOME RUN KID. Babe Dahlgren, former Red Sox spare, has contracted the home run habit since taking Lou Gehrig's post. Babe got three homers against A's Wednesday, another against Senators Thursday. He's at Fenway today and tomorrow with Yanks.

By JOE CASHMAN

A mere 13½ games out front in the American League pennant race, which is a wider margin by a game than the National League leaders enjoy over our seventh-place Bees, the world champion Yankees come storming into town today for three tilts in two afternoons with our second-place Red Sox.

The Croninmen are taking the engagement seriously.

Jimmy Foxx, Bobby Doerr and Jim Tabor are rushing back to the lineup for the single game today and doubleheader tomorrow.

Our three best pitching bets at the moment are primed to face the champs, "Lefty" Ostermueller this p. m. and Mose Grove and Elden Auker in the Sabbath twin bill.

The local populace, too, is all agog. There hasn't been a reserved seat for tomorrow available for a week.

All of which proves hope springs eternal in the human breast.

YANKS ARE "IN"

Actually there's no more reason to get unduly "het up" over this engagement than there is to get excited about the arrival of the month of July.

Certainly there's nothing crucial about a series that will leave the Yanks still 10½ games in the lead even if they drop three straight games.

It's three clubs immediately below them, all too close for comfort, and not the Yanks that the Sox are thinking about as they field their strongest lineup against the McCarthy murderers.

Only in the event that our heroes can gain the edge in this engagement and can follow it up by doing likewise in a five-game fracas in New York, starting Friday, will they be entitled to entertain visions of eventually extending the Bronx Bombers in the current flag struggle.

And nobody in his right mind looks for that to happen, unless it be the courageous Croninmen themselves.

It's not that the Sox aren't a pretty fair ball club. They're better than fair. Many clubs not as strong have won pennants.

CAN COAST HOME

It's simply that the Yanks are a super ball club, probably the mightiest ever assembled.

There's hardly a club record hung up in the first hundred years of baseball that isn't now at the mercy of these New Yorkers.

With but three sevenths of their season completed, they've already turned in fifty victories.

If they were to play only .500 ball in their remaining 90 games it would take 96 victories to beat them and the Sox, their nearest rival, would need to win 62 out of 97 starts to reach that win total.

A continuation of the pace they've been setting since the bell rang would find the New Yorkers shattering the all-time high for triumphs in a season—116 set by the Cubs of 1906—and romping home by a record breaking margin to become the first A. L. entry

Bootblacks Buy Jack Bouquet

NEW YORK, July 1 (AP) Here's hero worship for you.

A dozen shoe shine boys, who ply their trade around Madison Square Garden and Jack Dempsey's restaurant, hustled out early today and earned 75 cents with which to buy flowers for the former heavyweight boxing champion.

They made a good deal too, getting a $1.50 bouquet for their 75 cents.

Together they marched into the Polyclinic Hospital and gave the flowers to a special officer who took them to Dempsey's room. Jack was asleep at the time.

condition. But he is by no means out of danger.

"Every hour that passes is so much to the good."

Last night Dempsey's chances for recovery were placed at 60 to 40, but this morning they jumped to 75 to 25.

CRISIS IN 72 HOURS

It was explained that the crisis in such cases is not reached until about 72 hours after the operation. This would be between 9 and 10 tomorrow night.

Some anxiety was caused by a slight case of bronchitis which Dempsey developed. Great precautions were taken to prevent it from becoming more serious.

It was also reported that several very small intestinal perforations were discovered.

Dempsey was stricken suddenly Thursday night while playing cards at his home. He had been ill for several days, but pooh-poohed the idea it was anything serious.

Finally, at his wife's insistence, he summoned Dr. Lilliendahl, who ordered an immediate operation, which was performed by Dr. Robert E. Brennan, chief surgeon at Polyclinic Hospital.

WIFE SURE HE'LL WIN

Mrs. Dempsey, who had taken a room on the ninth floor of the hospital to be near her husband, left early today to care for their two daughters, Joan Hannah and Barbara Judith.

"There is nothing much I can say," she explained. "He seems to be doing nicely. Of course, we're certain he'll be well in a hurry."

Up and down Broadway and along the other Broadways of America the chief question was: "How's Dempsey doing?"

It was learned that shortly before Dempsey was taken to the hospital he closed a deal for several hundred thousand dollars for the formation of a Baltimore company to bring out a whiskey under his name.

Jimmy Snyder On Last Ride

EAST ST. LOUIS—July 1 (INS) A Chicago bound train sped out of East St. Louis bearing back to his home the body of Jimmy Snyder, noted speedway pilot killed in a test run at Cahokia track.

Snyder, one time milk man who rocketed to fame with his fearless driving and one month ago today finished second in the annual Memorial Day speed classic at Indianapolis met death on an obscure dirt oval only a quarter of a mile in circumference.

ELSIE ROBINSON writes from the woman's viewpoint, discusses everyday affairs and problems regularly in the Boston American.

3	Rosie Melody	10-1	69	Tom Cook
2	Traffic Jam	12-1	67	Seekonk Kennel
8	Roy Ed	8-1	61½	Farbe Spencer

LIQUID FIRE [illegible] with [illegible] figures to win here with CRACK UP in [illegible] pursuit. MISTER TICKLER [illegible] take it all.

SECOND RACE—FUTURITY
(Second Half Daily Double)
CHIMNEY TOP—SPENCER WHITE—JOE DI MAG

PP	Dog	Odds	Wt.	Owner
4	Chimney Top	2-1	67	Jess Williams
7	Spencer White	4-1	61	Paul Boone
2	Joe Di Mag	4-1	60	Oscar Dahlberg
5	Ch'f Swift Ar'w	8-1	72	Clyde Eno
1	Baby Porthos	8-1	57	Pat Gavan
3	Kel Traffic	10-1	61½	F. L. Brunis
8	[illegible]	10-1	65	Tom Baird
6	Chas Yonker	12-1	61	M. C. Sparks

The top one here, a 1938 pup, made its first start Thursday and ran creditably back to another first time starter. A repetition of the race means a win here. SPENCER WHITE should be next with JOE DI MAG entitled to the rest.

THIRD RACE—5-16 MILE
THELMA II—IDLE ALONG—AXIA

PP	Dog	Odds	Wt.	Owner
6	Thelma II	2-1		P. Harmon
3	Idle Along	4-1	61	Tom Cook
8	Axia	4-1	54	Jess Williams
2	Young Mabel	6-1	55	Fred Palermo
7	Crag's Pat	8-1	66	M. T. Dubiel
4	Doctor Bundy	10-1	69	Ben Neal, Jr.
1	Ben's Shadow	10-1	60	Pat Gavan
5	Be Gracious	12-1	69	Ernest Rhine

Thelma II has been lowered considerably and figures to beat this band quite handily. IDLE ALONG can make it interesting with AXIA for the rest.

FOURTH RACE—FUTURITY
SHAG TOWN—GOLD FLASH—SMASHING PORTHOS

PP	Dog	Odds	Wt.	Owner
7	Shag Town	3-1	60	Pat Gavan
6	Gold Flash	4-1	66	Otto Wohlauf
5	Sm'h'g Porthos	4-1	62	K. Stephenson
2	March Past	8-1	66	Jack Adams
8	Cotton Gin	8-1	51	F. L. Brunis
1	Harvest Time	10-1	58	Clyde Eno
3	Template	10-1	60	Tom Baird
4	Black Liquid	12-1	½	Ernest Rhine

SHAG TOWN rates a slight lead over this band and should score with GOLD FLASH racing through the stretch. SMASHING PORTHOS might take it all.

FIFTH RACE—5-16 MILE
TRAFFIC TRAMP—JIMMY STAFFORD—SWEET COFFEY

PP	Dog	Odds	Wt.	Owner
5	Traffic Tramp	3-1	57	G. H. Rogers
6	Jimmy Stafford	4-1	64½	L. Kirkpatrick
3	Sweet Coffey	4-1	45	Pat Conway
8	Visalia	6-1	83½	Ernest Rhine
7	Hither To Yon	8-1	65	Fred Palermo
1	War Danger	10-1	66	Otto Wohlauf
2	Troy Actor	10-1	65½	Farbe Spencer
4	Demure	12-1	66½	Oscar Dahlberg

Dropped back to its proper rating TRAFFIC TRAMP figures to win here with JIMMY STAFFORD, which moves up in closest contention. SWEET COFFEY should save the show.

SIXTH RACE—FUTURITY
ASHMO—TREATY TRAFFIC—READY APPLAUSE

PP	Dog	Odds	Wt.	Owner
8	Ashmo	3-1	60	Paul Boone
3	Treaty Traffic	4-1	57	F. L. Brunis
2	Ready Applause	4-1	62½	John Highhouse
7	Mr. Ray	6-1	50	L. Kirkpatrick
5	Sleepy Geer	8-1	64	Farbe Spencer
6	Prophet	10-1	66	Seekonk Kennel
1	Red Davis	10-1	58	Otto Wohlauf
4	And'w M'down	12-1	67	O. & B. Kennel

ASHMO, a hot box performer, is dropped in here where it should win with some to spare. TREATY TRAFFIC has early foot and could upset with READY APPLAUSE always dangerous.

SEVENTH RACE—5-16 MILE
APPOLLO—MIDNIGHT LILY—RIP TERROR

PP	Dog	Odds	Wt.	Owner
1	Appollo	3-1	59	Otto Wohlauf
3	Midnight Lily	4-1	62	Ted Lippold
2	Rip Terror	4-1	54	Art Wilson
8	Lucille Larry	6-1	61½	G. Lippold, Jr.
7	Guess Why	8-1	62	Farbe Spencer
6	New Issue	10-1	55	Clyde Eno
4	Queen's Kick	10-1	71	F. B. Stein
5	Fawn Fox	12-1	56	Fred Street

APPOLLO seems nicely spotted in here and should show the way with MIDNIGHT LILY forcing the contention. RIP TERROR seems entitled to what's left.

EIGHTH RACE—FUTURITY
CHINKO—MIDDLER—UP END

PP	Dog	Odds	Wt.	Owner
2	Chinko	3-1	75	Paul Boone
3	Muddler	4-1	71	K. Stephenson
5	Up End	4-1	67	Seekonk Kennel
7	Rural Crier	6-1	71½	M. C. Sparks
6	Lucky Crier	8-1	63	O. & B. Kennel
4	Mutton Broth	10-1	66	George Deragon
1	Com'ding Lady	10-1	56	J. L. Ayotte
8	C'v'cade C'rs	12-1	65	C. A. Rhodes

Much depends on the break for the results of this race. If CHINKO is alert and makes the first turn safely the race is over. MIDDLER may upset this plan with UP END [illegible]. In fact the eight dogs are not far apart.

NINTH RACE—5-16 MILE
JUNE BREEZE—DODGE TRUCK—ARMY BANNER

PP	Dog	Odds	Wt.	Owner
2	June Breeze	3-1	55	Ted Lippold
5	Dodge Truck	4-1	66½	Oscar Dahlberg
7	Army Banner	4-1	68	J. M. Haize
6	Court Critic	6-1	60	Art Wilson
4	Little Giant	8-1	73	J. L. Ayotte
1	Legal Court	10-1	57	F. Harmon
3	Gold Mine	10-1	60	G. H. Rogers
8	Curls Cutlet	12-1	71	O. & B. Kennel

If [illegible] gets the rail it's katie bar the door for this one should run on the inside. DODGE TRUCK'S last was its best [illegible] out if the hound could go on to win. ARMY BANNER must be considered.

TENTH RACE—5-16 MILE
CAVALIER CARESS—POLKA'S COURT—HABERDASHER

PP	Dog	Odds	Wt.	Owner
3	Cavalier Caress	3-1	63	C. A. Rhodes
7	Polka's Court	4-1	61	Seekonk Kennel
5	Haberdasher	6-1	67	Oscar Dahlberg
1	Lucky Tom	6-1	64	G. H. Rogers
8	Cameo	8-1	62	K. Stephenson
4	Pick a Quest	10-1	64	Otto Wohlauf
2	Beaverstein	10-1	59	F. B. Stein
6	Guiding Hand	12-1	60	Fred Palermo

CAVALIER CARESS can and should outfit this field with POLKA'S COURT the chief threat. HABERDASHER could make a race of it if he takes to running

Ledmore Rates Tops at Revere

By GREYHOUND

Jess Bingham's Ledmore not only stands out as the best bet in the seventh race but also on the entire ten-race card at Wonderland Park tonight.

Ledmore flashed its best race last time out when it covered the 5-16 of a mile in 31.3, coming from behind to win.

Sport Interludes

Doc Kendall Starts Serious Training { Larry Gilbert's Son Quits Baseball

By BILL GRIMES

Past and present champions, runners up and also rans in every branch of sport are trekking to Atlantic, North Quincy, today to pay their respects to the youngest 85-year-old in these, or any other, parts Dr. Walter Gardner Kendall.

Doc started training for the ordeal a month ago . . . But for the fact that he is the type that never allows himself to get out of condition he'd have required more time to round into shape.

Doc Kendall

Following his annual custom "Doc" will drink some of his famous and very potent punch with each and every visitor. And he expects 400 . . . And, as usual, he predicts that he'll be on his feet and raring to go when the party breaks up.

Eddie Phillips the former Boston College receiver, who is now managing Wilkes-Barre in the Eastern League, recently caught a double header against Hartford, without wearing a chest protector . . . As wide as he now is, Eddie didn't get in the path a foul ball . . .

For taking such unnecessary chances, Eddie is probably no longer a member in good standing in the Brotherhood of Safety First Ball Players.

J. B. Dunn, 3d, grandson of the late Jack Dunn, who owned the Baltimore, Orioles received the cup awarded at the Boys' Latin School, Baltimore, which went to the senior who made the most varsity letters in sports.

Cletus Elwood "Boots" Poffenberger, who "skohled" himself out of both the American and National Leagues, is pitching for Sharpsburg, a semi-pro club in Western Maryland . . . He's having trouble chalking up victories . . .

Virginia Bascom, Worcester, former girls junior champion of the state, is teaching school at Newington, Conn.

Hack Wilson

Larry Gilbert, Jr., son of the manager of the New Orleans Pelicans, has quit baseball. He's now connected with the largest department store in the Crescent City . . . Hack Wilson, the former National League slugger and strong man (physically) is the owner and operator of a Chicago "Dime-and-Dance" spot known as the Home Run Club.

Billy Wietelman, who is shortstopping for Hartford and on his way to the Bees started a triple play recently by Spearing a line drive off Johnny Garrett's bat with two on . . .

Although he is only 18 years old, Wietelman is one of the best looking prospects in the Eastern League . . . Wilfred Crossley, the New England amateur champion, will marry Miss Doris MacRae next month . . . Dick Keady will enter Columbia in the Fall. Lou Little, the Lions' head coach is summering at Osterville on Cape Cod . . . Lou has been bothered by arthritis for months and his golf is below standard . . . No, Jim "Byron Nelson" O'Connell, Norfolk, is far too serious a golfer to play with Bill Ormsby . . .

Despite the rain the Marshfield Country Club open attracted a large field yesterday. Today and tomorrow golfers from all sections of the state will folk to Marshfield, which is the banner tournament of the M. G. A. list . . . The player turning in the low gross for the three days will be awarded the Marshfield Trophy which Ted Bishop is defending this year . . . Is Marshfield getting easier?

Frankie Frisch had a 38 for the out nine Wednesday . . . He was playing about his normal game coming home for he used up 56 blows for the last nine . . .

During the Gridiron Club tournament at the Salem Country Club Bill Ohrenberger, the English High School coach, holed out a 170 yard iron shot at the 13th hole.

Art Ross

The Pine Brook Valley Country Club will stage its annual two day M. G. A. open tournament Monday and Tuesday. The field will be divided into three classes and there will be gross and net prizes awarded for each division . . .

The tournament committee is headed by Bert Jacobs and Abner Cohan . . . Eddie Myers, the pro-greenskeeper, has Pine Brook Valley in remarkably fine condition for the open . . . The Ross family, Uncle Art, Mrs. and son John are in New York visiting the World's Fair.

After watching the first baseball game ever played under lights, on June 18, 1909, the late Garry Herrmann, then owner of the Cincinnati Reds declared, "Night baseball has come to stay . . ." But, Clark Griffith who was managing the Reds that year didn't agree with his boss. Said "Grif," "I don't believe night baseball is destined to rival the daylight article . . ." That night game was played between the Cincinnati Reds and Newport Ky. Elks and the lights were invented by George T. Cahill, who hailed from Holyoke, Mass. A crowd of 4500 witnessed the contest.

Clark Griffith

Clayton Heafner, Charlotte, N. C. who played one round in the recent Mass. open championship has been indefinitely suspended by the Southeastern Professional Golfers Association, for giving incorrect information on his application for membership to the P. G. A. . . .

Four Sox Named To A. L. All-Stars

CHICAGO, July 1 (INS)—Connie Mack today withdrew as manager of the American League All-Star team which will meet the National League All-Stars at New York on July 11, according to an announcement by Pres. William B. Harridge of the American circuit. Mack is ill in Boston. Joe McCarthy, pilot of the world's champion New York Yankees, later agreed to handle the American Leaguers in the big game.

CHICAGO, July 1 (AP) Minus the "two big G's" for the first time Lou Gehrig and Charley Gehringer—the American League all-star team which will battle the National League all-stars July 11 at New York was announced today.

the Phillies has been listed at

Here is the squad selected by the eight league managers, which will be piloted by Connie Mack of Philadelphia in the seventh annual "dream" diamond duel.

GEHRINGER HURT

Pitchers: Tommy Bridges and Buck Newsom, Detroit; Bob Feller, Cleveland; BOB GROVE, BOSTON; Charles (Red) Ruffing, Vernon (Lefty) Gomez and Johnny Murphy of New York; Ted Lyons, Chicago.

Catchers: Bill Dickey, New York; Frank Hayes, Philadelphia, and Rollie Hemsley, Cleveland.

Infielders: JIMMY FOXX and JOE CRONIN, BOSTON; Hank Greenberg, Detroit, Frank Crosetti, Red Rolfe and Joe Gordon, New York; George McQuinn, St. Louis; Luke Appling, Chicago.

Outfielders: Joe DiMaggio and George Selkirk, New York; Myril Hoag, St. Louis, Bob Johnson, Philadelphia; ROGER CRAMER, BOSTON, and George Case, Washington.

CRONIN AT THIRD

Both Gehrig, long-time Yankee star and Gehringer, veteran Detroit second baseman played and starred in all six previous inter-league tilts.

Illness has forced Gehrig out of active competition and Gehringer, even though named again, will not play because of a severely pulled muscle.

Both played major roles in the four wins scored by the American Leaguers. The Nationals won in 1936 and 1938.

Absence of Gehrig and Gehringer may mean loss of some power at the plate but the junior circuiters still will have such clouters as Di Maggio, Foxx, Greenberg, McQuinn and Dickey to carry the load. Foxx has been ill, but is expected to be ready by July 11.

Gomez, who has started five All Star Games, Bridges, Grove and Ruffing all have had All Star mound experience. Their company, backed up possibly by Feller's fast ball, give the squad a great hurling corps.

Behind the plate, Bill Dickey won't be in an unfamiliar role. He caught in every game except that of 1935, when Hemsley did the back-stopping. And there is power plus defensive class in the outfield setup.

Of the eight infielders named only Rolfe is a third baseman. Gordon will have to handle second base duties alone, though Cronin, Crosetti or Appling could fill in at third or short in an emergency. Foxx, Greenberg, and McQuinn give the team plenty of power at first base.

In addition to Gehrig and Gehringer another notable absentee was Earl Averill, former Cleveland star, now with Detroit. He was selected on all previous teams.

* * *

Lou Fette was the only Bee named to the National League all star group, selections for which follow.

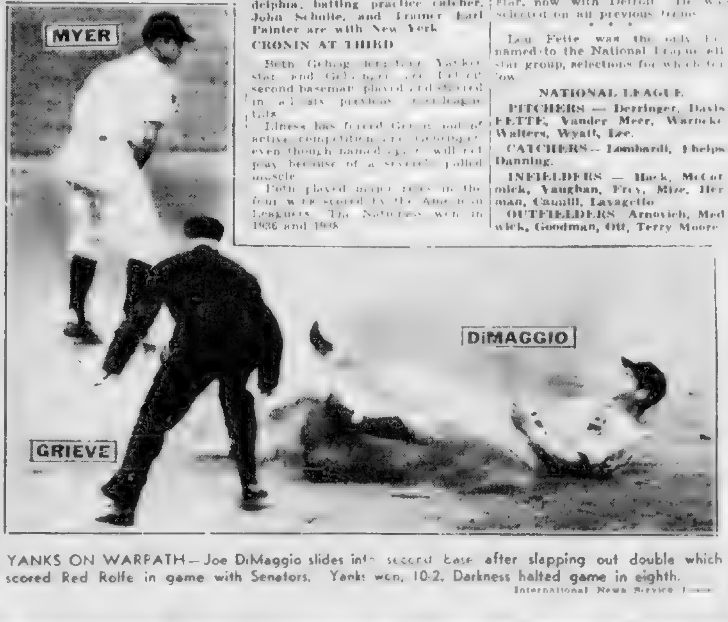
NATIONAL LEAGUE

PITCHERS — Derringer, Davis FETTE, Vander Meer, Warneke Walters, Wyatt, Lee.

CATCHERS — Lombardi, Phelps Danning.

INFIELDERS — Hack, McCormick, Vaughan, Frey, Mize, Herman, Camilli, Lavagetto.

OUTFIELDERS Arnovich, Medwick, Goodman, Ott, Terry Moore.



YANKS ON WARPATH—Joe DiMaggio slides into second base after slapping out double which scored Red Rolfe in game with Senators. Yanks won, 10-2. Darkness halted game in eighth.

MICKEY COCHRANE SAYS:

Aces Take Tricks In Short Series

By MICKEY COCHRANE

If a manager were to skip a start for a pitcher in a streak, the public would accuse him of picking his spots. I recall, when I was a youngster, managers were often accused of picking spots for their stars. Sometimes they do, and with legitimate reason.

[illegible] is a consideration in relief hurlers. Some pitchers can do anything. Others cannot start a game. Still others cannot [illegible]

You'll find some who detest batting practice to the point where they make a nuisance of themselves avoiding it.

Batting practice pitching is becoming something like a lost art with many clubs retaining the same pitcher on the rubber for the practice sessions day after day. Managers, coaches and utility men will sometime perform the task.

Charlie Ruffing

The essential thing in a batting-practice pitcher is his ability to get the ball over the plate with good control and an average amount of speed.

If you have a well-manned staff and the batting practice is pitched by some regular persons assigned to that task, you may find one or two men not getting enough work.

It is a good policy to pitch a regular roundsman in a relief job in such spots.

RUFF EVER RELIEVE?

A couple of years ago Carl Hubbell pitched in relief roles a great deal. Terry said Hubbell did not like to pitch batting practice and chose the relief roles himself rather than perform at the hitting practice.

Frequently star pitchers cannot be used as finishers. They are temperamentally unsuited. I cannot remember ever seeing Charlie Ruffing in a relief role, and Lefty Gomez never was impressive as a finisher.

It is common for star pitchers with a first-place club to have trouble with second-division teams.

Just as I have never believed in the efficiency of starting an ace against an ace, I have never believed in throwing a good pitcher against a club he has trouble beating.

Handling of the pitching staff is one of the most important jobs of a manager.

The four best men on the staff must be selected for the starting staff, and there must be two men who are good at relief roles.

In the relief roles, as we have pointed out before, you must have men able to step into the batch and carry through with their best stuff.

They must have [illegible] a fast [illegible] through [illegible] top [illegible] two [illegible] and [illegible] that is [illegible] to [illegible] in [illegible]

The [illegible] were perfect examples of good relief men—Marberry with that fireball in the dark shadows of a late afternoon, Wilcy Moore with his funny sinker ball, and Johnny Murphy with his tricky hook.

Gomez explained that he was better if he could work himself into a starting assignment over a twenty-four-hour period.

There are other men, of course, who can take the call right in the midst of a rally and walk out from the bench and stop it.

Handling each pitcher in his proper order is a matter of individual discovery.

Just as a catcher must learn how to get the best out of each pitcher he is asked to receive, the manager must learn by the process of elimination how best each individual pitcher will work.

In the major-league club staff of at least eight or nine pitchers, it is essential to give it enough work so that it is effective.

Things are always cropping up which will interrupt the order of your starting pitchers—injuries, ineffectiveness against certain clubs, and insufficient rest when the entire group seems to collapse and it takes all the staff to win, or lose, a ball game.

In a championship race, the odd games present a relief, a burden, and a help all at the same time.

Using your best pitchers against the topflight teams, you can generally depend upon the "fifth, sixth, and seventh" pitchers to win a certain number of the games with the second-division clubs.

There's a double reason for this. On a staff there will always be a man who is not a starting pitcher, who will be able to beat second-division clubs.

Not simply because they are second-division clubs, but perhaps because the odd man who is not a regular starter—may be a fellow who requires lots of rest between starts, will be effective to handle certain clubs.

When the A's were burning up the baseball world a few years ago, Grove was their best pitcher. Washington was much of the time less than a ball of fire.

Yet the Senators, with a left-handed batting order, supposedly weak against left-handed pitching, gave Grove more trouble than any team in the league.

Charlie Ruffing was [illegible] example of [illegible] He was very effective against the Cards, but it seemed [illegible] for him to [illegible] He was [illegible] club.

Bull Pen secrets are told tomorrow by Mickey Cochrane in the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

COOKE, MARBLE AMONG VICTORS AT WIMBLEDON

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 1 (AP)—Elwood Cooke of Portland, Ore., and Alice Marble of San Francisco, two of America's leading candidates for honors in the all-England tennis championships, moved up a round today with straight set victories.

ALICE MARBLE, U. S. women's champion and seeded No. 1 at Wimbledon, who joined Sarah Palfrey Fabyan in fourth round of all-England tennis championships today.

Cooke advanced to the quarter-final round of the men's singles with a 6—1, 6 1, 6—4 decision over John Olliff of England.

Miss Marble, U. S. champion and seeded No. 1, disposed of Miss B. G. Beazley of England, 6—4, 6—3, to enter the fourth round of the women's competition.

Gracyn Wheeler was eliminated when Mary Hardwicke of Great Britain beat the Santa Monica, Cal., girl, 7—5, 9—7, to enter the fourth round of the women's singles.

Jadwiga Jedrzejowska Polish champion, also moved into the round of 16, defeating Miss H. Kovac of Yugoslavia, 6—4, 6—3.

In the men's singles, Franz Kukuljevic of Yugoslavia stroked his way into the quarter-final round with a 6—4, 6—3, 6—1, decision over M. D. Deloford of Great Britain.

Gene Smith, the Berkeley, Calif., schoolmaster who already is in the quarter-final bracket of the singles, teamed with Don McNeill of Oklahoma City to win a second round match in the men's doubles. They defeated the powerful German combination of Henner Henkel and Georg Von Metaxa, 6—3, 7—5, 7—5.

Helen Jacobs of Berkeley, Calif., 1936 champion and seeded no. 2, joined Miss Marble in the fourth round of the women's singles with a 6—3, 6—2 victory over Miss J. P. Curry of England.

All-Star Snub To Eddie Miller Peeves Hivemen

PHILADELPHIA, July 1—Refreshed by their unexpected day of rest and not a little irate over the selection of only one of their number for the All-Star game, the Bees arrived here today for a short three-game series with the Phillies.

A single game is scheduled today and a doubleheader tomorrow.

The postponement of the final game of their series with the Giants gave the Bees an opportunity to take in the World Fair. But the edge was taken off their day's outing with the announcement that Lou Fette was the only Boston player selected for the National League All-Star team.

That Fette, with nine victories to his credit, would be chosen, was a foregone conclusion weeks ago. In addition many felt certain that Eddie Miller, the rookie shortstop, also deserved the honor.

Miller has been the fielding sensation of the season and in the past few weeks has greatly outhit both Bill Jurges and Aukie Vaughan, the two shortstops picked for the All-team. In fact, during the past month, Miller has added 55 points to his batting average, so that today he is hitting at the very respectable rate of 270, practically on a par with the New York and Pittsburgh veterans.

Sailor Bill Posdel has been nominated by Mgr. Casey Stengel to hurl the opening game of the series this afternoon. Posedel was originally slated to face the Giants, but when the game was postponed, his assignment was allowed to carry over.

That isn't exactly good news to the "phutile" Phillies. For Posedel has been one of the Bees' most consistent hurlers and will be gunning for his seventh victory today.

Kelley and Pawson 'Gang-Up' on Brown In Somerville Run

Tired of taking Tarzan Brown's dust, both Johnny Kelley and Leslie Pawson are determined to reverse tables on the Indian when the clash at 6:30 this evening in the St. Polycarp's 10-mile run in Somerville.

Brown has taken the time prize in nine straight races, including the B. A. A. marathon in which he broke the record.

He wasn't defeated this year until the Bunker Hill Day race from Stoneham to Charlestown, a race which was short of the 10-mile distance.

He's in the midst of the greatest victory streak in New England road race history, and he'll be hard to stop, but both Kelley and Pawson gave him a rub last Saturday in the Holy Name 10-miler in West Roxbury, and both feel confident they'll stop the Indian's wild running this evening.

Brown, Pawson and Kelley are scratch men in the event, which has drawn a most attractive field.

Heading the underlings is Jimmy McCafferty of Woburn, who won both the Bunker Hill Day race and the West Roxbury affair last week, aided by generous handicapping.

Other favorites in the field will be Clarence De Mar, old Mr. Marathon himself, who will wear No. 1, Andre Brunelle, Tony Paskell, Johnny Semple, Honore St. Jean, Louis Young, Bill Molloy, Bill Simons.

The race starts and finishes on Temple st., East Somerville.

A pack of about 60 runners will bear down Mystic av., Fellsway, Broadway, Beacon st., Somerville av. to Davis sq., then ply back by way of College av., Boston av., Harvard st., Mystic av., New Parkway, Fellsway, Broadway and Temple st.

45-Year-Old on 288-Mile River Swim

CUSTER, Mont., July 1 (AP)—His legs cut by rocks and driftwood in the swift Yellowstone river, Clarence Giles plowed along downstream today in quest of a new fresh water swimming distance record.

The 45-year-old Glendive, Mont., auctioneer arrived at Custer this morning, covering 76 miles in 12 hours and 10 minutes. He left Billings, Mont., yesterday intending to swim 288 miles to Glendive.

Giles said his knees particularly were scratched and bruised but he "still felt strong."

Vance to Ride In N. H. Race

Dizzy Vance, West Roxbury driver, will compete with other leading drivers at the Rochester Fair Grounds in Rochester, N. H., tomorrow.

Driving a brand new Miller race car of his own design, Vance will be the choice to take the feature event. There will be four five-mile races and the 20-mile feature.

Among the other drivers entered are: Joe Sostillo, Newton; Dick Malley, Lynn; Bumpy Bumpus, Brockton; Cannonball Riglon, Roxbury; Don MacDonald, Brockton.

AGING BILL TILDEN COULD ROMP OVER WIMBLEDON FIELD

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 1 (AP)—If William Tatum Tilden, III, should by a wave of the committee's wand, suddenly become an amateur again, he could drag his aging limbs onto Wimbledon's turf and win the singles championship hands down.

The geraniums are pretty, the tea satisfying and the debutantes satisfactory, but the tennis smells.

For instance, it is quite likely United States players will spreadeagle the tournament.

But who are these guys?

Outside of Bobby Riggs, who is pretty well known, they have no great fame either at home or abroad, although Elwood Cooke is a nice young fellow and Gene Smith is genuinely swell.

RIGGS THE PUZZLE

Yet these three are very hot stuff. The reputations of awesome continentals and the young sprigs English tennis has nurtured carefully since the Davis Cup hit the road in 1937, all have evaporated like crap-shooters before a cop.

This general mediocrity has not even produced matches which are long on thrills if short on skill. There isn't a bit of the tennis Wimbledon crowds have come to expect.

Riggs, Cooke and Smith still are very much in the ball game. Ferenc Puncec of Yugoslavia, rated the best of the continentals by the experts, may lick Gene, but nothing short of a holocaust or his own over-confidence can keep Riggs out of the finals.

Cooke, who has this year's typical Wimbledon game—sound enough ground strokes, a country club service and a goodish bit of the old zing—may give Bobby an awful battle if they meet.

Still, this trio stands heads and shoulders over the rest. Or, as one weary Briton said with a sigh:

"Why didn't America send over half a dozen more? Then you'd have had eight men in the quarter-finals."

The big puzzle of the tournament still is Riggs. The English can't make him out. They like to see him smile, and they like the duck-footed way he shuffles around the court. But they don't know what makes him tick.

INCENTIVE GONE

He plays mediocre tennis against nobodies and, except for infrequent flashes of his true ability, looks lucky to win. It is hard to realize that he's the same player who lost to Baron Von Cramm in a brilliant five-set match at Forest Hills in 1937.

One explanation offered is that Bobby doesn't give a hoot any more.

"While Don Budge was on top, Bobby had something to work for," said one American player. "Now Bobby is considered the best. He gets the trips and makes the headlines. Maybe the incentive is gone."

This is the best player in the tournament. This is America's No. 1.

Hey, Mr. Tilden, what have you got on next week?

'GANSETT DECISION MONDAY

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 1 (AP)—The Narragansett Racing Association mailed letters to its stockholders notifying them that the annual stockholders meeting would be held next Monday morning, at the race track clubhouse.

The letters were signed by Raymond J. MacMahon, secretary of the association.

Several hours earlier, a stipulation agreeing to the meeting of the stockholders on July 3 instead of July 10 had been filed in Boston with the clerk of the Federal District Court by attorneys for the Walter E. O'Hara re-election committee and the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The July 10 date had been set this week by Judge George C. Sweeney after he enjoined the use of some stock holders' proxies by the O'Hara committee, which is seeking to elect O'Hara to his former job as Narragansett director.

Judge Sweeney's injunction was issued after a hearing on action brought by the Securities Commission against the O'Hara committee. He restrained the committee from using shareholders' proxies received after June 15 as a result of a letter sent out by the committee to stockholders June 10. Judge Sweeney found the June 10 letters soliciting proxies on behalf of O'Hara "violated the rules of the SEC."

Later Arthur M. Brown, deputy clerk of the district court, said Judge Sweeney had indicated he would agree to the July 3 date provided the parties to the temporary injunction agreed.

Stipulations, filed late yesterday, were signed by Ernest Cuneo, counsel for the O'Hara committee, and by Joseph P. Rooney, regional director of the SEC.

Commenting in Boston after the the stipulations were filed, McMahon, also attorney for the association, said he was willing earlier in the week to hold the meeting July 3 but that he objected now to the shift because of the late hour.

Amateurs, Pro In Outboard Race

RICHMOND, Va., July 1 (AP)—Top-ranking amateurs and professionals "revved-up" their motors today for the nerve-shattering battle to win $250 in cash prizes and trophies in the annual Richmond outboard regatta over a choppy James River course.

Pace-setter in the professional class was the three-time national high point champion, Fred Jacoby, Jr., of North Bergen, N. J.

ever to win the title four years running.

Die-hard critics keep claiming that no club can be as good as have the Yanks to date and insist the Yanks must crack before the finish.

True, it doesn't appear in the cards for them to keep up the terrific gait they've been setting, but it's 100 to 1 that when, if ever, they do slow up, they'll be so far in front it won't make any material difference.

PITCHERS GREAT

When last they came here, on May 29, the air was filled with predictions that they'd soon slacken down in speed.

They were 5½ games on top at that time.

They've nearly tripled that advantage in one month.

And this hasn't been due to opponents folding up against them, either, as so many anti-Yanks would have you believe.

The Sox have no inferiority complex against any club, yet the Rifles have knocked them off three times in four starts.

One pitcher after another has held the New Yorkers to a run or two, but most of them finished second best because the Yankees hurlers they were facing were proving even more effective.

In a recent series in New York, the White Sox were in front in three games and lost out on each occasion. In two of those tilts, the Bombers scored 18 runs after two were out. Chicago courage could do nothing about that.

ALMADA GIRLS, U. S. CHAMPIONS, CHALLENGE PETS

So rapidly is the fame of the Olympets growing that Walter Brown's softball misses have received a challenge from the national champions, the Almada girls of San Francisco, for a game at the Garden in August.

The West Coast girls plan a trip through the East during the summer, and are anxious to play in Boston.

Flushed by their success against the leading teams in the East, the Pets are anxious to test their mettle against the nation's best.

It was thought that the illness of Helen Johnston would be fatal to the club's chances when it met the Connecticut Yankees Thursday, but Babe Boudreau came through with a well-pitched game, and Edna Stafford and Virginia Dagg pulled her through with their hitting.

The next game on the Pets' docket will be with the Fisk Rubber team of Springfield at the Garden next Thursday.

The Fisk girls won the state championship a year ago.

The preliminary game will see the Totem Pole lassies of Norumbega Park line up against the Gardenias in the opening game of the Metropolitan League.

The Met League, first softball loop to be formed in this city, will be made of four teams, the Gardenias, Totem Pole, Boston and Maine and Home Service Laundry.

Louis Accepts Challenge to Meet Farmhands

SHELBYVILLE, Ind., July 1 (AP)—Joe Louis' knockout of the aging Jack Roper in Los Angeles April 12 led Mel Higgins, Shelbyville poolroom owner, to send the world's heavyweight champion a telegram razzing him for "picink on old men."

"I can name three people in this vicinity," Higgins said, "who could give you a good whipping."

Louis waited until after his Wednesday night win over Tony Galento in New York to reply.

"Am still champ," the Negro fighter wired Higgins, "and now ready for those three Shelby County farmhands."

Spinal Ailment Halts Les Powers

PHILADELPHIA, July 1 (INS)—The baseball career of Leslie Powers, promising Phillies' first baseman, was ended, at least temporarily, today by a spinal ailment which led the 27-year-old ex-collegian to ask for his unconditional release.

Gerry Nugent, president of the Phillies, announced he had complied with Powers' request for an unconditional release to take a prescribed "rest treatment."

Joe & Asbestos

By KEN KLING

WHAT DO YOU THINK OF HORSE RACING AT NIGHT?
I'M STILL IN THE DARK ABOUT IT!

Asbestos has two codes today. One goes at Delaware and is Pansies 18-8-20, another is Carnations 15-8-22. Same horses in new code out today is Helen 25-9-26 and Hilda 19-9-15. He slips $5 win and $5 third on each. Yesterday's code lost.

Ken Kling's code horses go today in the third and sixth races at Delaware, entries for which follow:

THIRD RACE—Purse $1000; claiming; three-year-olds, up; 6 furlongs (6):

5	My Elsie	112	3	Robespierre	109

Charlie Root, Admitting 40, Checks Reds

By International News Service

There were only three major league games yesterday but one of them served to stress the amazing prowess of Charlie Root, dean of National League pitchers.

The Chicago Cub veteran actually seems to improve with age. He says he is 40 so you may be sure he is at least that old, for ball player never add anything to their years.

He hasn't got the speed he once had, but there is nothing the matter with his curve; his control is almost perfect, and his head and heart are superb.

He used all those assets to turn back the league-leading Reds, 5 to 1, and gave up only eight hits.

Charlie Root

The Cubs made only four off Johnny Vander Meer, who was banished for giving the umpire too strenuous an argument, and Whitey Moore, but between them they issued nine bases on balls, and the Cubs joyfully took advantage of same.

There were two games in the American. The Tigers moved up into third place by trimming the White Sox, 3-1. Buck Newsom gave only six hits, and two errors cost the White Sox a pair of runs.

The Yanks pounded out an easy 10-2 decision over the Senators in a game halted first by rain and then called at the end of the seventh on account of darkness.

Hildebrand held the Senators to four hits while his mates slugged Carrasquel and Kranauskas for 13.

Young Eddie Collins Joins A's Next Week

Eddie Collins, Jr., son of the general manager of the Red Sox and captain of the Yale baseball club this past season, will join the Athletics next week.

He is in Cleveland, attending the wedding of a friend.
